Shivers Victory In Texas

Pro Ike Governor Takes Big Primary Lead Over Liberal Backed Yardborough

BULLETIN

DALLAS, Aug. 28 (AP)—The Texas Election Bureau said at 10:30 p. m. Gov. Allan Shivers appeared to have won an unprecedented third term on the basis of returns from 203 counties, 146 complete.

The 10:30 p.m. tabulation of the Texas Election Bureau, an unofficial agency, showed Shivers ahead by 73,630 votes with more than two-third of the expected vote counted.

The tabulation was 613,452 for Shivers and 539,822 for Yarborough.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 28—(AP)—Texas' Gov. Allan Shivers tonight headed toward apparent victory in his bid for a third term. The conservative Democrat, who has the blessing of President Eisenhower, held a steady lead in tabulation of today's runoff primary over Ralph Yarborough, a liberal Democrat.

Returns from the Texas Election Bureau at 9:30 p. m. CST showed Shivers with a 50,534-vote lead.

The count was 400,909 for Shivers and 350,375 for Yarborough, with returns from 155 of Texas' 254 counties, 62 complete.

Robert L. Johnson, head of the Election Bureau, an unofficial agency, said, "the trend all evening has held to an indication of a Shivers victory. The trend has not varied."

Neither candidate had made any statement at the time.

Shivers had started off with a 3,000 vote lead in the first count.

In the first tabulation of the state's July 24 Democratic primary, Yarborough had taken a narrow lead. Shivers led Yarborough by almost 24,000 votes in July but was forced into a runoff by the 36,000 votes garnered by two minor candidates.

Yarborough is backed by the liberal faction of Texas Democrats. Shivers led his state party machinery to endorse Eisenhower for President. Soon after the first primary, Eisenhower at a press conference said he thought Shivers was a good governor.

Today's election ended the bitterest, hardest-fought campaign in many a year in Texas. The two candidates hopped across the vastness of the state by plane and car, holding old-fashioned court-house square rallies. They covered the state with radio and television appearances; they leveled one charge after another at each other.

Yarborough, 51, an Austin attorney who ran against Shivers two years ago and was beaten by more than 300,000 votes, kept on campaigning today. He went to San Antonio shaking hands.

Shivers, 47, is seeking a third term, unprecedented in Texas history. He and his wife and four children went to their farm home at Woodville in southeast Texas to await the returns.

Yarborough has claimed he was the "real Democrat" in the race and charged that Texas had "one man rule" under Shivers, whom he called "my Republican opponent."

Shivers charged that Yarborough was controlled by the CIO-PAC and the NAACP and would turn over Texas to outside interests.

Bewhiskered Bandit Flees With $30,000

SANDY, Utah (AP)—A lone bandit, whose false whiskers and moustache failed to arouse suspicion because of a nearby pioneer celebration, fled with more than $30,000 from the Sandy City Bank just after closing hours yesterday.

Bank President Heber J. Burgon said he thought the man was wearing the whiskers as a participant in nearby Bingham's Galena Days celebration. Both communities are close to Salt Lake City.

Youth Claims Murder Of His Girl Friend

ROME, N. Y. (AP)—A young man told police today he had choked his girl friend to death in an automobile and pushed the car and the girl into the barge canal here.

Capt. Otto Engelbrecht said Henry J. Fiaschetti, 20, of Rome, walked into police headquarters at 3:30 a.m. and announced that he had killed Beatrice Guglielmo, 19, also of Rome, earlier this morning.

Police summoned a diver to search for the car and body.

Rain Stops Quick

The rain Saturday morning was nice, only it stopped too soon. It helped the track at the state fair by laying the dust, but it made the fairgoers parboil in their own perspiration during the sultry afternoon.

The temperature here Saturday at 7 a. m. was 77 and it was 94 at 1 p. m., 97 at 3 p. m. Rainfall was .02 inch.

Continued hot and partly cloudy Sunday, high in 90s.

One year ago today here high 97, low 71; two years ago 91, 64; three years ago 95, 73.

Peace And Prosperity Party Theme——

GOP Meets In Cincinnati To Map Plans For Congressional Races

CINCINNATI, Aug. 29 (AP)—Republicans pounded out a peace-and prosperity slogan as they gathered here today for a shirtsleeve conference to blue print plans for the camping to retain control of Congress.

With national committee members scheduled to begin informal conferences tomorrow, an advance guard of Young Republicans prepared to tell their elders the strongest appear of the GOP for new voters lies in maintaining a high level of employment and keeping the guns of war silent.

Sullivan Barnes of South Dakota, chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, stressed the peace-and-prosperity theme in outlining what he regards as the top issues of the campaign.

Rep. George Bender, who represents something of the typical Republican candidate in the race for the Ohio Senate seat once held by the late Robert A. Taft, had the same idea.

"I think the principal appeal of the Republicans is that the Eisenhower administration has brought the country prosperity without bloodshed," Bender declared.

Barnes said younger voters obviously have more at stake than their elders in maintaining a peaceful economy at a high economic level.

Barnes cited a report of Secretary of Labor Mitchell showing a season improvement in employment as indicating that by the time the campaign hits its peak in October tne economic situation is likely to be good.

The GOP National Committee said in a statement prepared for conference delegates the flexible farm price support program passed by Congress represents "by far the highest schedule of price supports ever written into any peacetime legislation."

In its workshop sessions beginning Monday, the national committee will try to pinpoint issues, chart campaign methods, speed up public relations efforts, lay out precincts and registration techniques and approve materials to sell the record of the Eisenhower administration.

Delegates reported generally Eisenhower is just as popular among the voters as in 1952. But they agreed the outcome in the contests for 37 Senate seats and 435 in the House may be swayed by local as well as national issues.

24 Die In B36 Tragedy While Landing Plane

Perfect Weather For Flying When Worst Bomber Crash Occurs

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 28 (AP)—A giant B-36 bomber, approaching Ellsworth Air Force Base for a landing in "perfect" weather, smashed into a knoll short of the field last night, killing 24 crewmen.

Three survivors of the crash, worst in B-36 history, were in critical condition today at the base hospital.

The Air Force identified the gravely-injured survivors as Airman 1/c John W. Harvey, Indianapolis; Capt. Phillip C. Toups, Kilgore, Tex., and 1st Lt. Roger Bumps, Taftsville, Vt.

Flames which enveloped the fuselage and charred the victims touched off brush fires on the flat country about 13 miles east of this western South Dakota city. They were quickly brought under control.

Alfred Swallow, on whose ranch the plane crashed, and his son, Harold, 35, sped to the scene moments after the bomber plowed into the small hill.

"We couldn't get near them," Harold said. "The plane was just a wall of flames and we couldn't see anybody, dead or alive. Two of the engines still were running while we circled the plane in our jeep."

An Air Force officer said the plane was in contact with the base control tower shortly before it began its approach. He termed the weather at the time "perfect."

Amid the bodies in the debris after the flames had subsided Air Force rescue squads found the three critically injured survivors.

The bomber had taken off earlier yesterday on a routine flight. The crash occurred about 10:15 p.m. MST.

Except for the tail assembly, flung about 200 yards from the fuselage, the plane virtually disintegrated. "We wanted to help," Harold Swallow said, "but we couldn't get very close. The heat was terrific."

The Air Force announced a board of inquiry will try to determine exact cause of the tragedy.

Three Killed In Auto Collision In Kansas

LENEXA, Kan. (AP)—A man and two women were killed and another man critically injured today in a head-on collision on U. S Highway 50 south of Lenexa.

The dead man was Chief Petty Officer Billie Lincoln Stephenson, Kansas City, Mo., who had just completed two weeks of training at the Olathe Naval Air Station.

One of the women was identified later today by her husband, James, as Mrs. Anna Bell Williams, Kansas City, Mo. Dr. David S. Long, Johnson county coroner, said an insurance card found in the effects of the other woman bore the name Wanda Stahl of Wichita, Kan.

Injured was Dr. Robert S. Darrow, Columbua, Ohio, psychiatrist. Attendants at a Kansas City, Kan., hospital reported his condition was critical.

Dr. Darrow had been visiting Clyde DeFord, Overland Park, Kan. DeFord said Darrow borrowed his automobile to take an early morning ride. The accident occurred about 6 a.m.

French Agree On Postponing Debate On EDC

Hope New Negotiation Will Bring Changes That Are Acceptable

PARIS, Aug. 28 (AP)—French Assembly leaders apparently reached a tentative agreement tonight to postpone debate on the European Defense Community treaty to permit new negotiations on changes in the pact.

Premier Pierre Mendes-France called his Cabinet to meet with him tomorrow noon to discuss the proposed delay. The decision to summon the Cabinet session came after day-long discussions between Mendes-France and a group of staunch supporters of the European army project.

The Assembly opened its debate on the long-delayed ratification of the treaty earlier today in an atmosphere of frustration and bitterness. Prospects appeared slim for survival of the pact, which France and five other continental nations signed in May, 1952 to create a unified army including a half-million German troops.

Since then the issue has driven a wedge between Frenchmen of all levels, dividing the nation as have few issues in its history.

Today's debate actually played second fiddle to the behind-the-scenes talks over postponement. Most of the proceedings on the floor involved reports from various Assembly committees—all recommending rejection of the pact.

As the night session came to a close, it appeared only a few points remained to be ironed out before agreement could be announced on postponement. The chief differences were over the wording of the resolution in which the Assembly would be asked to put off further debate.

Mendes-France reportedly wanted a free hand in new talks with the other EDC members. He also wanted an expression of thanks for the way he had conducted negotiations last week at Brussels when the other five nations sharply rebuffed his efforts to get drastic changes in the treaty.

'Quake Jolts Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — A moderate earthquake jolted Tokyo and a wide area of Honshu, Japan's main island, tonight. The Central Meteorological Observatory said the quake was of intensity one to four on a scale of eight. No damage was reported.

Announce New Action Planned On Profiteers

FHA Administrator Says Windfall Profit Will Be Payed Back

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—Federal Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole announced today that "decisive action" will be taken to compel recipients of millions of dollars in "windfall" profits on government-guaranteed mortgage loans to pay back the money.

Cole said promoters of big rental housing projects who paid windfalls to themselves violated section 608 of the National Housing Act which provided that only earned income may be distributed to stockholders.

Charges of irregularities in connection with housing loans have been under intensive study both by the Federal Housing & Home Finance Agency, headed by Cole, and by the Senate Finance Committee. Attention has centered on a postwar program, now expired, designed to stimulate the building of apartment houses. It has been revealed that many apartment builders got government-guaranteed loans far in excess of construction costs and pocketed the difference.

Chairman Capehart R-Ind of the Senate Banking Committee has estimated that irregularities in several federal housing programs have netted builders windfalls of up to half a billion dollars.

Cole said the first step toward recovering unearned profits has been taken. He said Sidney Sarner, president of 13 Fort Lee, N.J. rental housing corporations has been directed to call meetings of the preferred stockholders within 10 days for the purpose of removing the present directors of the corporations and of electing new ones.

The new directors, he said, will be elected by the Federal Housing Administration, which owns the preferred stock in all corporations created under section 608 of the act under which the alleged windfalls were reaped. This law expired in 1950 and under the 1954 housing law Cole said safeguards have been incorporated dot protect the public and to prevent recurrence of "similar abuses."

Reached at his Fort Lee office for comment Sarner said, "I will defend my rights in this matter."

He said, "I have no official notification" of Cole's directive and added:

"Cole does not even give courtesy in the slightest degree to a citizen before a charge, and is assuming victory is gained before even a charge is made. What makes his direction a requirement? We are governed by a charter and his direction won't interfere with our rights under the charter."

Clyde Lambert Injured In Fall From Truck

Fair Facts, Folks and Fables

TODAY'S PROGRAM

1:30 p. m.—100 Mile stock car race.

7:30 p. m.—Musical revue and stage show at grandstand.

Dancing Waters runs continuously.

Stars Over Ice will have several shows, afternoon and evening.

Little has been said about the ice show, Stars Over Ice, but the show is one of the finest of it's kind and includes 15 outstanding skaters. They put on a stellar production, especially when one realizes their usual actions are cramped to certain extent since they are working on a small rink on a stage.

Marlin Woods, Ft. Worth, Tex., employed in one of the stands on the grounds, suffered severe cuts about his face, one necessitating the taking of several stitches over his eyes. The accident was an unusual one, a soda pop bottle exploding in his hands as he prepared to open it.

Otto Botz, Jefferson City, former Sedalian, was a visitor at the fair Friday. Mr. Botz has attended all but two of the 52 Missouri State Fairs. "I always make it for a one day visit, at the least," Mr. Botz said.

Stanley Fike, executive secretary to U. S. Senator Stuart Symington, was a visitor at the fair Friday afternoon. Mr. Fike, a newspaperman prior to joining the staff of Senator Symington, made a special trip to be here for Missouri Press Day at the fair.

Mr. and Mrs John B. Ewing, Washington, D. C., were visitors at the fair on Friday. Mr. Ewing is a brother of secretary-manager Ross Ewing of the fair and made a special trip to Sedalia to see his brother and the fair.

They went to Independence late Friday to visit his son and family, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Ewing Jr., and to see their new grandson for the first time.

Competition among the some 200 FFA boys from 60 schools in Missouri was very keen during the FFA show Saturday and Monday. Even though each boy had his own livestock chiefly in mind, all FFA boys were hoping for enough blue ribbons to bring the coveted Phil M. Donnelly throphy for the best exhibit of FFA livestock at the 1954 Missouri State Fair to their chapter.

Governor Donnelly presented this trophy to Don Tweedie and Bobby Hill representing the Stet FFA chapter.

To win the coveted trophy, 25 boys from the Stet FFA chapter exhibited 47 beef cattle, 26 sheep and 66 hogs. This exhibit of 141 head of livestock was the largest exhibit of any Chapter. The governor's trophy is awarded on the basis of quality and quantity of exhibit. The FFA boys from Stet were awarded 59 blue ribbons and 91 red ribbons.

Many visitors at the Fair admired hooked rugs made by Mrs. George Teater, Blairstown. Their gorgeous colors and exquisite shadings are truly works of art. Both rugs received blue ribbon awards in their respective classes.

Mrs. Teater's rugs have won many awards in previous years at state, county and local fairs. For these rugs she dyes all of her material for flowers and scrolls in order to get the desired shades. She always uses woolen material, either discarded clothing or wool which she buys from companies that sell rug-making supplies.

During the past few years Mrs. Teater has hooked rugs for her own home, including two room size rugs, and many for gifts for relatives and friends, and has hooked numerous rugs, including a 9 x 12 for her daughter, Mrs. Edward Callis Jr., Hughesville.

Mrs. Roy S. Kemper, widow of the late secretary of the Missouri State Fair, Roy S. Kemper, was a visitor at the fair Friday, accompanied by her son, Dr. Shale Kemper, also of Macon.

Mrs. Kemper presented the Roy S. Kemper memorial trophy to Fred Egan, who drove Allure to victory in the 17-Class Trot harness race.

Donald Dowell, Vandalia, was the winner of the annual 4-H Club Skilled Tractor Operators' Contest sponsored by the Missouri Ruralist. He out-pointed 20 other 4-H'ers in the contest held in the Coliseum Friday.

There were 21 district winners with seven receiving blue ribbons, seven red ribbons and seven white ribbons.

The entrants displayed their skill in operating a tractor pulling either a wagon and some farm machine.

The following high school bands furnished music at the fair Saturday: Atlanta, Queen City, Archie, Pattonsburg and Osceola. There was a total of about 350 young musicians in the five bands. Saturday was the last day for the high school band participation in the fair. The numerous bands which have appeared this year have added a great deal of color and spirit to the '54 fair.

Goodrich Settles Pay Dispute With Rubber Workers

CINCINNATI, Aug. 28—(AP)—The B. F. Goodrich Co. and the CIO United Rubber Workers reached agreement today on a wage increase averaging 6½ cents an hour for about 15,000 employes in nine cities.

The pay boosts will be 6 cents an hour for plants in Akron and Marion, Ohio; Miami, Okla.; Cadillac, Mich.; Clarksville, Tenn.; and Riverside, N. J. At Tuscaloosa, Ala., employes will get a 7½ cent hourly boost, and at Los Angeles and Oaks, Pa., a 9-cent hike.

The increase, which will average 6½ cents an hour, will be effective at the beginning of the current pay period, Aug. 23.

D. D. Reichow, Goodrich's supervisor of industrial relations, and L. S. Buckmaster, international president of the United Rubber Workers, made joint announcement of the settlement.

The proposal is subject to approval of the union's General Executive Board and to ratification by the membership at the nine plants.

The Goodrich settlement is similar to one reached by the URW at Cleveland yesterday with the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. That proposal, which will end a 52-day-old strike of about 23,000 Goodyear employes, provided for pay boosts averaging 6½ cents hourly.

Electrocuted At Work

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28—(AP)—William Morgan was electrocuted today while at work at the Nooter Corp. when he came in contact with a 220-volt trolley wire.

Police said the electrician had climbed an electric hoist to get the serial number and other data from the electric motor. As he reached out to keep his balance at the top of a girder, his body hit the wire that powers the hoist on its rails.

Name GOP Dinner Head

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28 (AP)—Arthur K. Atkinson, president of the Wabash Railroad, today was named chairman of the Republican $100-a-plate fund raising dinner here Sept. 17.

Roscoe C. Hobbs, general chairman of the GOP Finance Committee here, announced the appointment. Vice-President Richard M. Nixon will speak at the dinner as part of his 32-state speaking tour.

MISSOURI BUILDING always draws visitors and these youngsters seem to be enjoying the old water wheel which is part of the exhibit. Housed in a building all its own, the display is a permanent one, having been especially made for the World Fairs in New York and San Francisco. (Walch photo.)

Eye New Mark As Fair Ends

Need 53,472 Attendance To Put Fair Over Half Million Total For First Time; Saturday Record Of 44,970 Set

As the 52nd annual Missouri State Fair comes to a close tonight, officials of the exposition are looking to a new attendance mark and are hopeful that for the first time in history the figure will reach the half million mark.

Saturday had a total of 44,970 in attendance to boost the eight-day total of 446,528. That is only 53,472 shy of the hoped for mark and is high enough to almost assure that the former 9-day record of 467,197 will be topped. That was the mark of 1953. Saturday was also another record day for the fair, eclipsing the old Saturday mark of 43,303 by 1,667.

While livestock was leaving the grounds Saturday, as the judging of all classes had been completed, and the show horses and race horses were being shipped to other fairs over the country, the fair-goers still have more to see than it was possible to view in a single day.

Displays were still intact and the commercial exhibits were operating from early until late. The midway was crowded as the thrill seekers went for a final spree before they have to wait for a year for the return of the rides and shows.

At the grandstand the afternoon crowd thrilled to a new world record by the big car racers and the night crowd enjoyed the stellar stage show and musical revue.

Today will be Aviation Day at the fair and several hundred fliers are expected to arrive at the Municipal and the State Fair airports in a "fly-in" celebration to take part in the activities on the grounds.

Left on the program for today was the 100-mile stock car race that is expected to draw one of the week's biggest crowds, possibly as big as that which saw the big cars in action a week ago today when the fair had it's biggest attendance of the year. Certainly the race today will draw as many as were on hand Thursday for the Grand Circuit harness races.

Tonight the grandstand's musical revue and stage show will be presented for the final performance and the fireworks will give a salute to the closing of the 1954 fair.

This afternoon and evening the Dancing Waters show, hailed by those who have seen it as one of the outstanding attractions, and Stars Over Ice, a really great performance by ice skaters, will continue with several shows. There will be three productions of the ice show and the Dancing Waters will run continuously.

A Kansan came to the Missouri fair from Olathe, to win the Missouri State Fair bait-casting championship Saturday. Claude M. Shepherd, a veteran caster, had a pair of steady 96's to win out of a possible 100 on each set.

The winner received the KDRO traveling trophy and a permanent plaque. Shepherd reported he would return in 1955 to defend his title.

Friday had an attendance of 30,096 with more than 100 members of the Missouri Press being honored at a luncheon served in Coley's Cafeteria. Hosts for this event were Ross Ewing, secretary of the fair, and W. H. Ritzenthaler, publicity director.

Progress Reported By CIO Phone Workers And Bell

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28—(AP)—"Some progress" was reported by both sides today during contract negotiations between Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., and the CIO Communications Workers of America.

The present contract expires at midnight tomorrow but continues in effect past that date until one side gives a 30-day notice of termination, which neither has done.

"No agreement was reached," a company spokesman said after the 6-hour morning and afternoon sessions were recessed, "but some progress was indicated."

Frank P. Lonergan, assistant director of the union's District 6, said the two sides "got a little closer to a basis of agreement, but no agreement was reached on any item."

Lonergan has said the union's 51,000 members had voted 6 to 1 in favor of a strike if necessary in the negotiations.

The two sides will resume their bargaining sessions again tomorrow 10 a. m. CDT.

The union is seeking an undisclosed pay boost and other fringe benefits.

The company operates in Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Arkansas and part of Illinois near St. Louis.

French Accuse Rebels Of Lack of Faith In POW Exchange

SAIGON, Indochina (AP) — The French high command today accused the Communist-led Vietminh of lack of faith in the exchange of prisoners of war.

The French have virtually completed the handover of 29,146 POWs held in North Viet Nam at the time of the cease-fire, while the Vietminh have released 4,313.

The French say the Vietminh promised to repatriate 9,138 of the 40,172 missing from French Union forces in the nearly eight years of war. Only nine senior officers appeared on the Vietminh prisoner exchange list while at least 60 senior officers are known to be missing. Brig. Gen. Christian De Castries, captured at Dien Bien Phu, has not yet been released.

Four Injured In Sedalia Car Wreck Sat.

Accident At Saline And Engineer, Both Cars Are Damaged

Four persons were slightly injured, in a car collision at Engineer and Saline about 7:15 p.m. Saturday. Both automobiles were badly damaged.

The injured were Mrs. Clyde Dey, 810 East Fifth, driver of a 1953 Pontiac sedan, and John Zaremba, 28, Olathe Naval Air Station, driver of the second car, Phyllis Dey, 11, and Ronnie Zaremba, 6.

Mrs. Day suffered body bruises and complained of an injury to her right side; her daughter suffered a back injury, bruises about her face and shock; Zaremba received lacerations on the top of his head, brush burn on his left hip, and bruises; his son received a severe cut on the upper lip and the loss of one tooth.

The injured were taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing and Mc Laughlin ambulances. At the hospital Dr. T. J. Hopkins rendered medical treatment and had X-ray pictures taken of Mrs. Dey and her daughter.

Mrs. Dey was going south on Engineer and Zaremba was headed east on Saline, when the collision occurred. The Pontiac rolled over twice and stopped on its wheels in front of the Church of God, while the 1948 Plymouth was spun around.

As the Plymouth spun around in the street, Zaremba was thrown from the car into the street. His son was thrown against the windshield. Mrs. Day and her daughter were thrown around in the front seat of the car as it rolled over.

The front end of the Plymouth was smashed in while the right side of the Pontiac was smashed. Both cars were towed away by the Chamberlin wrecker.

Denver Man Lost For Week Without Food, Back Safe

ESTES PARK, Colo., Aug. 28—(AP)—John Dalie, 25, Denver mountain climber who had been sought for six days' stumbled into a camp ground today and told a story of wandering without food since last Sunday in the Long's Peak vicinity.

Dalie was taken to a hospital for observation. He appeared to have suffered little from the ordeal he said he experienced.

He told amazed tourists at the Meeker Park camp ground, 13 miles south of Estes Park, that he was without food and shelter after becoming separated from a 32-member Colorado mountain club group.

The climber's appearance halted a widespread search launched Monday by Rocky Mountain park rangers, volunteers and an air-rescue team from Lowry Air Force Base. The search parties had combed a wide area on and below the peak.

This was the story told by Dalie: He lagged behind the climbing party and upon reaching the summit of the peak found they had already started the descent. A storm swept over the mountain, forcing him to wait about two hours.

He started down the west side of the mountain but was overtaken by darkness. He spent the night near a lake, sleeping briefly among some rocks.

Monday and Tuesday he tried to head eastward but lost his bearings and became hopelessly lost. From then he lost track of time and saw no one until he stumbled into the camp ground.

Dalie's parents at Denver started immediately for Estes Park.

Nelson Scott Van Hoozer, 16, was killed. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Van Hoozer of Martinsville, Mo.

The driver Larry Eugene Groves, 15, Martinsville, suffered a concussion and chest injuries. He was taken to the Bethany Hospital.

The highway patrol said the car sped 300 feet out of control before hitting the bridge and breaking in two.

Col. Armas Has Friend Named Betty

GUATEMALA CITY, Aug. 28 (AP)—The wiry little colonel who wrecked Communist plans to take over Guatemala has a friend named Betty.

In Spanish her name is Chabelita. There's affection in the way he says it.

Betty is a blue-black .45-caliber automatic. Her owner, Lt. Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, president of Guatemala's junta government, says of her: "We are inseparable. Wherever I go, Chabelita goes."

But somehow, the gun seems out of character with Castillo, a man of quiet temperament whose favorite pastime is chess. He is soft-spoken, friendly and unaffected among people he knows.

In action, however, he can be bold, as he was in leading a ragtag army of irregulars against forces supporting ex-President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman, pro-Communist regular army colonel now an exile at the Mexican Embassy here.

Castillo keeps Chabelita handy because his position has been uneasy since his liberation army won the two-week revolution last June which overthrew Arbenz. Like a good chess player, Castillo knows where he is going and when he expects to get there—and he doesn't underestimate the power of an opponent. At the moment, although there still may be setbacks, he appears to have the game well under control.

Politically, he is somewhat left of center, determined to purge the Communists and to defy extreme right-wing elements who "might try to hold back the hands on the clock of history."

At 41, he is short (about 5 feet 5) and thin. A professional soldier, he is neither an expert politician nor an economist. But he is an avid reader with a quick mind.

He graduated from the Polytechnic School—Guatemala's military academy—in 1936 and went into the army. In 1945 he returned to the academy as its deputy director. In 1947, after a course at the Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., he became the school's director.

During World War II, Castillo served as a member of the joint U. S.-Guatemala commission charged with planning the mutual defense of the hemisphere. His work earned him the Mexican Order of Military Merit and two Bronze Stars from the United States.

He has two loves beside Betty—Guatemala and its freedom, and his attractive brunette wife, Odilia Palomo de Castillo was a schoolteacher before their marriage. They have no children.

As head of the junta Castillo works hard. He's up early, receiving visitors in the cheerful home a friend has turned over to him. By 9:30 a.m., he's in his office where he works and receives callers through the day to 9 p.m. After dinner at home there are more callers—office seekers, aides or government officials.

Castillo says he has tremendous problems to solve, foremost among them "an economy practically destroyed by the Communists."

He already has disenfranchised all illiterates—about one third of Guatemala's three million population—who formed a basis for much of the Communist support under Arbenz. His domestic program is simple: economize, rebuild, encourage free enterprise, offer foreign capital fair and equal treatment and a chance to earn fair profits.

Harem Girl Will Be Hostess At Touring 'Egyptian' Show

Sedalians will be treated Monday to the spectacle of an Egyptian harem girl serving as hostess at the Fox Theatre presentation of "The Egyptian" touring studio exhibit.

She will be wearing a diaphanous gown similar to those worn by the women of Pharaoh Akhnaton's court 3,300 years ago.

The pretty miss is really Evelyn Bunn, a striking brunette prominent in New York and Hollywood modeling. She will also appear at the Sedalia Air Force Base, the Rotary Club and a Monday evening fashion show at Flowers.

The exhibit, which opens free of charge to the public at 11 a. m., consists of authentic costumes, jewels, weapons and furnishings used in the promotion of Darryl F. Zanuck's five-million-dollar Cinema-Scope film "The Egyptian" which will open Sept. 16th at the Fox.

Two unnamed cubs, a lion and a leopard, will also be seen by the public inside the trailer. They were flown from Egypt to Hollywood for the cross-country, 60-city tour. They are to be given away at the tour's end to the two children under 14 years of age who submit the most unusual names for the pair. Names are to be submitted to the manager of the Fox Theatre.

The exhibit is open Monday only and then continues on to Jefferson City, its next stop on a 9,500-mile itinerary.

Report from Sedalians Abroad—

Ruins of Lebanon Still Show Grandeur That Was Romans'

Largest Stones Ever Quarried by Men May Predate the Flood; Bryans Find Nation Is only One In Area Predominately Christian

The Rev. and Mrs. David Bryan are traveling through Europe, Asia and the Holy Land and the pastor of the First Christian Church in Sedalia is reporting their experiences for readers of The Democrat-Capital. This is his third letter)

By Rev. David Bryan

Ba'albek, Lebanon: Several centuries before the birth of Christ the Phoenicians traveled from the Mediteranean Coast across the Lebanon Mountains and in the upper part of the Baaka valley they built one of their most important religious capitals called Ba'albek, city of Baak. In the Roman period at the beginning of the Christian area, the local god was identified with the Roman God Jupiter and under their auspices one of the most imposing temples ever constructed was built and dedicated to Jupiter of Heliopolis.

From Cairo, Margie and I have flown to the tiny country of Lebanon and after visiting the coastal plains both north and south of Beirut we have crossed the Lebanon Mountains (still snow covered in places) and up the Baaka valley to marvel at the engineering skill and the building powers of Rome. For centuries wherever her legions marched she conquered, ruled, and built—and how impressive she has built here on the upper Litani River. Into the construction of this city went the largest stones ever quarried by man. A few decades ago, even reputable scholars believe the Ba'albek was built before the days of the flood when giants occupied this secluded valley. Many a person travels through this part of the world and goes home feeling that Ba'albek was the most impressive experience he had. When Mark Twain toured Palestine, he named his horse "Ba'albek" because, "He was such a magnificent ruin."

When I leave Ba'albek with the group of people I am ushering on this European and Holy Land Tour, I shall go down the valley and then turn east over the anti-Lebanon range of mountains into Syria. It is not difficult to see Lebanon. It is a tiny country whose entire population does not exceed that of St. Louis. However, it is strategically located and almost every great conqueror of history has come this way. From the time of the Babylonians on their way to discipline the Hebrews in ancient times to the Snuglish under General Allenby in 1914, dozens of persons have stopped on a stone bluff near Byblos along enough to inscribe their names and make their boasts. This is an excellent spot for the philosopher to meditate on the futility of those who live by the sword.

This is also a good spot from which to look out across the little valley to the mountains and ponder the future of this hearty peasant folk who have, by sheer hard work and tenacity, made the earth bear fruit where seemingly none had been intended by the Creator. Their capital city of Beirut is a place of contradiction. It is the most modern city of the Middle East with more late autobiles per capita than any other in the world. Here also one sees the most motely collection of costumes of any city—the Syrian with his queer baggy pants, the Arab with his heavy camel hair robes and kaffeyish draped head the gay and brilliantly colored costumes left here by the crusaders a thousand years ago, the Turkish veil, and the latest western garbs. All can be seen everytime one glances out toward the street. Here the habits, customs, and prejudices of the ages intermingle and struggle for supremacy.

Lebanon is the only country in this part of the world which is predominately Christian, but only slightly more than 50%. However, the Christians are divided among many sects, mostly Catholics of Manonite, Greek, Syrian, and Roman persuasion. Nevertheless, the Christians are at least united enough that the president of the republic is always a Christian even if the next highest official is always a Moslem. This precarious balance between Christian and Moselm and the fear that the scale might be tipped is a basic reason that few Palestinian refugees have been admitted here. One of the great Christian leaders and moral forces in the United Nations is Lebanon's Charles Malik, not to be confused with Russia's stooge by the same name.

Today Lebanon is working hard to raise the living standards of her people and to introduce more modern methods of tilling her soil. Among the southern coastal plains, I saw Technical Assistance teams working on irrigation projects among the banana and citrus orchards. Up north near Tripoli is a much publicized U. S. project involving a dozen villages. Here the peasants are being taught the use of more efficient plows, fertilizers, and better seeds. Raising Jersey cows, Leghorn chickens, and Belgian hares are a part of the livestock program. I met the American ex-college agriculture teacher who is head of a large experiment station here in the valley near Ba'albek. Here one can see huge American tractors at work in the midst of camel caravans and Lebanese tramping out their grain on Biblical threshing floors. Here also are wheat, melon, and lentil farms interspersed by great hashish fields which will keep the fires going in the hubl-buble pipes of addicted Middle Easterners.

Since the Israeli war which closed the port of Hafa to the land-lucked Arab, Lebanon, with her ports of Beirut and Tripoli, has taken on a new importance. Charles Malik's leadership in the U. S. has made her a world influence far greater than her size would warrant.

My next move will be over the mountains into Syria. Incidentally, I have two people traveling with me who are well known to many readers of the Sedalia Democrat. One is Mrs. Louis Lingle of Windsor and the other is the Reverend Harvey Baker Smith of the first Christian Church at Marshall. They are good travel companions. Margie and I have enjoyed having them share this great experience with us.

Recent Rains Made Flower Show Colorful

Despite the summer drougth, flowers seemed to be revived by recent rains to make a wonderful display in the amateur section held in the Floriculture Building, second floor, Tuesday. The entries totaled 158 compared with less than 100 last year.

It was the opinion of James E. Smith, superintendent of the show, that the recent rains over Missouri had improved the quality and stimulated exhibitors to meet the challenge of what they feared would be a light show for the crowds who came to the fair.

Marigolds were short this year, but zinnias, roses and arrangements had many new exhibitors showing for the first time.

The rose exhibit was particularly beautiful and in the arrangements were many unusual ideas used with flowers of top quality.

Sedalians and surrounding communities came out with most of the awards, although thee were several winners from other towns including Kansas City, Columbia and Salisbury.

Mrs. O. M. Clouser of Marshall, formerly of Sedalia, was one of the exhibitors and received several awards.

The Easy Way To Roast A Ready-To-Cook Turkey

First, we'll defrost the turkey by letting it stand 6 to 12 hours at room temperature. To speed this operation, let an electric fan blow on unwrapped bird or let cold water run on turkey in its original wrapping.

1. Remove cleaned wrapped giblets (to cook for stuffing or gravy); rub inside of turkey with salt.
2. Stuff neck cavity with your favorite stuffing; skewer neck skin to back. stuff body cavity well but lightly. (1 cup for each pound of turkey.)
3. Sew or skewer body opening together; tie legs and fasten under tail to hold them close to body; twist wing tips flat against back.
4. Place turkey on rack in roasting pan; cover with cheesecloth dipped in melted fat. Do not cover pan; do not add water. Roast, basting often with melted fat, 3½ to 4 hours at 325° F.

Mrs. Beckham and children were here four years ago, it being six years since Mrs. Walton had been here.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn Swarner, Horton, Kan., accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Brinton, Kansas City, called on Tipton friends and visited Mr. and Mrs. Brinton's farm southof town while at Boonville, Aug. 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gerber and children of Chicago called at the Maclay home, Wednesday.

4-H Round-Up

By Jim Perry
Assistant County Agent

4-H Council Meeting — September 14

The last quarterly 4-H Council meeting of 1954 4-H year will be held Tuesday night, Sept. 14. The Council will meet at 8:00 p. m. in the Assembly Room of the Courthouse. A report of the program planning committee will be presented to the Council.

Jack Jackson, Agriculture Director and farm news broadcaster, will give a slide-talk on European agriculture and farming methods. This Council meeting is open to 4-H members, parents and leaders. Each council member should make sure that these people in their club understand this.

Having seen and heard Mr. Jackson's slide talk, I can certainly recommend it highly. Many of you will remember hearing him speak on the radio of the two tours that he and several other agricultural men made a couple of years ago.

Judging Team Results

Pettis County 4-H Judging Teams participated in the district judging contests at the State Fair. These teams placed well in the competition. However, the most important benefit received from the contests by these boys and girls is experience received. This experience of selecting the best article or animal and telling why will be useful to them later in life. The experience is really more important than the ribbon or winning the contest.

The results of the contests are as follows:

Food Preparation Team — First Place

Jeanette Edmundson, Flat Creek, Red; Mary Ann Lewis, Van Natta, Blue; Bonnie Gorrell, Van Natta, Blue.

Clothing Team —Seventh Place

Christine Silsby, Georgetown, Red; Mary Schwartz, South Abell, Blue; Betty Schlobohm, Oak Grove, White.

Home Furnishing Team — Fifth Place

Lula Gibson, Maplewood, Red; Glenda Rhodes, Quisenberry, White; Grace Schneider, South Abell, Red.

Livestock Team—No Team

Clinton Reid, Prairie Ridge, Blue; George Fairfax, South Abell, Red.

Dairy Team — Eighth Place

Dude Hoehns, Ringen Brushy, Red; Jos. Hoehns, Ringen Brushy, Red; Jim Monsees, Smithton, White.

Vegetable Team —No Team

George Buchholz, Van Natta, Red; Donald Welliver, Flat Creek, Red.

St. Louis Beef Marketing Day

The St. Louis Beef Marketing Day offers a market for project animals belonging to 4-H members carrying Baby Beef and Beef Production Projects. This event will be held in the National Stock Yards, St. Louis, Illinois on Thursday, September 16th. Producers Livestock Marketing Association in cooperation with the State 4-H Club Staffs of Missouri and Illinois are sponsoring the event. This will provide 4-H'ers with an opportunity to see cattle graded, sold, and processed.

The regulations governing the event are as follows:

1. Members of Baby Beef Production Project groups are eligible to consign project animals.

2. Arriving animals must not be offered feed or water until after they are weighed.

3. Animals should arrive at the sheep section of the Yards not later than noon D.S.T. on Wednesday, September 15. Weighing will start as soon as possible after noon and continue until all animals on hand are weighed. Animals arriving after the scales are closed will not be graded and will be handled separately. After animals are weighed, they are sorted into uniform lots for sale purposes.

4. Graded lots will be weighed in a single draft on Thursday and the shrink or gain from the original weights prorated.

Rule 2 has always caused a flurry of questions. The way the cattle have been handled in the past is they are hayed and watered after weighing in. This gain is pro-rated to each of the calves after the sale.

The program for Thursday, September 16, 1954, is:

Daylight Saving Time

9:00 a. m. — Members will locate their animals.

9:30 a. m. — Tour of a packing plant.

11:15 a. m. — Demonstration on selecting feeder calves — E. R. Divine, Producers Live Stock Marketing Association.

11:50 a. m. — Awards to be made by East St. Louis and St. Louis Chambers of Commerce.

12:10 p. m. — Lunch for consignors — Compliments of Producers and the National Stock Yards Company.

1:00 p. m. — Announcement of sales — H. D. Wright, Manager of the Producers Live Stock Marketing Association.

All project members interested in selling cattle through this marketing event should let me know by September 10th.

District Fair

The Johnson County Fair will be held in Warrensburg, September 9, 10, and 11th. This Fair has been set up for Johnson and surrounding counties. Any 4-H member interested in entering this Fair may see a copy of the catalog in the Pettis County Extension Office.

Members entering would have to make arrangements to get their products to Warrensburg.

Plan For Project Completion

September is the month in which to plan for completion of projects. Every 4-H member should turn in the completed project forms to his leader at the September club meeting.

Earl Curry of Georgetown 4-H tells me that their club is planning on completing 1954 records in September and selecting their 1955 projects. If every club could get this job done, and project leaders selected, a more desirable leader's training program could be carried out.

Researchers Compile Data On Polio Test

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 28 (AP) —Trusted researchers, handling information no one else may see, are compiling the voluminous data from the nationwide Salk antipolio vaccine tests.

The nation and the world are waiting on the outcome.

The ultimate findings will relate to the health experience of 1,800,000 school children and the effectiveness of the much publicized vaccine.

But until the researchers' job is complete, they are saying nothing of what they're learning. And it probably will be months before anything can be said.

Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., director of the University of Michigan's Poliomyelitis Vaccine Evaluation Center, emphasizes further that the results will not be black or white though they will indicate how good the Salk vaccine is, and when it is good.

Dr. Francis also says:

"Everybody connected with the evaluation program and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis itself agrees that the evaluation program should not receive further publicity."

The pressure on the researchers to tell how the tests are coming is great.

But Dr. Francis says that because of the nature and sensitiveness of the evaluation program it is impossible to publicize the item-by-item results.

Dr. Francis adds:

"In fact, we will not know the results ourselves for several months to come, probably not until sometime in 1955."

The mechanics of the evaluation procedure are simple. Experts, including two Bureau of Census workers on leave, receive packages of records from the 217 test areas.

These are the health records of the 1,800,000 children in the test population. Of these 650,000 have been innoculated, 440,000 with the Salk vaccine and 210,000 with a control substance. The rest received nothing at all.

All cases of polio, paralytic are not reported to the center. All records are kept under lock and key.

The work of the center does not concern records alone. Specimens of blood and stool from stricken children are sent to laboratories by county and state health officers.

These are tested and the results sent to the center in Ann Arbor. Diagnosis reports are also turned over to the center by hospitals and attending physicians.

This data is rechecked with state health officers before the case record becomes complete.

When all the records are in, Dr. Francis, says the center will publish a compilation which will determine whether the vaccine is effective and if so how effective.

The National Foundation, which paid for the development of the vaccine by Dr. Jonas Salk and also is paying for the avaluation, will have paid nearly $7,500,000 for the complete progrm.

General Supports Legion Position On UMT Program

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey today lent a word of encouragement to American Legion leaders in their drive to get Universal Military Training.

The director of Selective Service, speaking before the Legion's National Security Commission on the eve of the 36th annual convention, suggested the organization should keep after Congress on the issue.

Hershey pointed out that Congress committed itself to the principle of UMT in drawing up the Selective Service Act of 1951 which replaced the 1948 draft law.

However, Congress has never actually passed legislation to put the peacetime training program into effect. Hershey suggested the Legion should tell the legislators what it believes the nation should have in the way of reserve forces.

Hershey's views were received shortly after the group heard Warren Atherton, a former national commander from Stockton, Calif., recommend that the Legion wait no longer for President Eisenhower "to make up his mind" about UMT.

Atherton suggested the Legion present its demand for UMT to Congress next January.

"Let's not wait to see what the President does about it or what the views of next year's Congress may be," said Atheron, "Let's continue the leadership which we started in this fight 35 years ago."

Hershey, in discussing the Selective Service operations, said a dwindling of draft calls has resulted in increased pressure by young men, especially students, to duck out on military service.

"Many of them are looking for gadgets in the technical and scientific works that they can crawl behind when the bugle blows," he said.

"We have to have scientists but we must stay masters of the scientists and not let them push us around."

Dick Haymes Faces Five-Day Jail Term On Return to Coast

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Crooner Dick Haymes faces a five-day jail sentence if he reaches California.

Now living on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe with his current wife, actress Rita Hayworth, Haymes yesterday was ordered jailed in contempt of court for failing to appear on a charge that he was in arrears $4,800 in alimony payments to one of his three former wives, actress Joanne Dru.

The singer also is sought on a bench warrant on contention he is in default of $100 monthly payments to another former wife, Nora Eddington Haymes.

In recent months Haymes also has been fighting a federal deportation order. He was born in Argentina. The government asserts he failed to get permission when he reentered the country a year ago after a visit to Honolulu to see Miss Hayworth. Such permission is required of neutral aliens, a status he claimed during World War II to gain a draft exemption.

Timber Strike Ends

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 28 (AP)—Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. and its 1,200 striking CIO woodworkers at Springfield, Ore.; reached agreement today for a 2½-cent hourly pay boost.

At the same time an employer group was meeting here to try to bring pine operators into a peace plan advance at Olympia, Wash., Thursday by the governors of Oregon and Washington. Fir operators accepted it earlier.

The Springfield settlement was the first in which a woodworkers local had reached agreement with the firm. Weyerhaeuser's AFL operations at several Oregon and Washington locations settled earlier on the same basis. The 2½-cents puts Weyerhaeuser pay 7½ cents above the general industry lvel since it gave a 5-cent boost last yar while most employers did not.

Judge Evaded Tax Because He Could Not Pay

RENO, Nev., Aug. 28 (AP) — A county judge who was fined $5,000 yesterday for evading federal income taxes explained today why he did it: He couldn't afford it

Judge John S. Belford said he found the steadily increasing burden of taxes a practical impossibility to meet."

So, said Judge Belford, he filed no returns at all for the years 1951 and 1952 rather than turn in phoney returns.

The judge, who pleaded guilty to the charges yesterday, said he would pay his taxes "just as quickly as I am financially able to do so."

He said in a statement that he had not intent to defraud the government. Federal Judge John Ross who sentenced Judge Belford, said yesterday he agreed.

The charge said Judge Belford's gross income was $8,203 in 1951 and $9,064 in 1952.

He said in his statement today: "As so many other people, I have found the steadily increasing burden of taxes a practical impossibility to meet. I have a large family with three teen-aged children. In addition—the burden of unusual sickness and support of those not in my immediate family further depleted my assets."

Not filing a return is a misdemeanor; filing a false return is a felony.

Had Belford been convicted of a felony, he would automatically have lost his judgeship under Nevada law.

He indicated he does not plan to resign, and said he does not plan to withdraw his candidacy from the Nov. 4 election, when he seeks another 4-year term. He is unopposed.

Belford could have been fined up to $10,000 and jailed one year on each of the two counts of tax evasion.

St. Louis Firemen Save 50 People From Smoke

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28—(AP)—Firemen used ladders to rescue about 50 persons trapped by heavy smoke today on the second and third floors of a building in a West End business district.

The smoke was from a fire which started in the basement of a clothing store. Damage from the fire was estimated at $6,000.

Many of those rescued were physicians and dentists, their employes and patients. Doctors' offices occupy most of the top floors of the three-story structure. The smoke prevented the occupants from leaving by the stairways.

Three children and six firemen were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation.

Signs Farm Bill; Major GOP Victory

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed farm legislation representing a major administration victory and declared it will "bring substantial, lasting benefits to our farmers, our consumers and our entire economy."

The President signed the farm measure in a small conference room at the Lowry Air Force Base administration building, his vacation headquarters.

In a prepared statement the President declared:

"I am very happy indeed to approve this bill which embodies my major recommendations to the Congress in January. This new law—the central core of a vigorous, progressive agricultural program—will bring substantial, lasting benefits to our farmers, our consumers and our entire economy."

The President noted that the "most publicized feature" of the new law is "the flexible price support system which it places into effect" after this crop year, in place of the present rigid support program.

The bill signing ceremony was withessed by about a score of newsmen and a few presidential aides.

When Eisenhower had put his signature to the measure, he turned to the newsreel and television microphones and said informally:

"It is a great satisfaction to me to sign this agricultural bill. It marks the culmination of a year and a half of solid work to develop a system of governmental cooperation with the farmer of the United States so that the agricultural economy may be stabilized, may be kept healthy to the benefit of the farmer himself, our entire economy — including the consumers.

"All of us—160 million people—can be thankful that this bill has been enacted into law."

The President hailed congressional enactment of the measure as a move to assure provision of more food, make crop production more efficient and to stabilize farm income.

Eisenhower said that under the new law "our farmers are assured of greater freedom instead of the rapidly increasing regimentation and federal domination they were sure to suffer under a continuation of the present system of rigid price supports."

The President said it was his hope "that in time nearly all production adjustments can be accomplished through flexible supports instead of direct government controls."

Mrs. Rabourn Completes Two Years At Nursery

Mrs. Lucy Rabourn has been superintendent of the Melita Day Nursery two years, Sept. 1, and these have been very happy years for her because she has enjoyed the work. Mrs. Rabourn has tried to please the board and she feels she has because the members have cooperated with her in every way.

The nursery has grown until 102 children were there on Saturday morning. She and her assistants try to see that the children have a good time and often she promises them a surprise if they are good. This is usually balloons or bubble gum. Each Monday morning they have the Pledge to the Flag, a flag which was donated to the nursery by a Sedalia man. There are many donations of food, toys and just all kinds of things made to the nursery.

Before each meal the children say a little blessing and each Monday morning they are asked if they have been to Sunday school and then Mrs. Rabourn asks how many say their prayers. She teaches them to do one good deed every day, and to watch when they cross the streets. Twice a day they are each washed and their hair combed. It is a big job, taking care of so many youngsters, but Mrs. Rabourn thinks it is a lot of fun.

Mrs. J. H. Rabourn Qualifies for M.A.

Mrs. J. H. Rabourn, 1022 East Broadway, a teacher in the Sedalia public schools, completed work for her master's degree as elementary principal at the close of the second summer session at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg. The degree will be conferred at the spring commencement.

Merry-Go-Round

Webb Takes Sublease On Olympus

(Note To Editors: While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several guest columnists, today's being the well-known star, Clifton Webb.)

CLIFTON WEBB
On
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—There is a time-ridden canard that no comedian can happily enter the actors' valhalla or bear to see the last curtain rung down unless he has—for one performance, anyway—wowed them in Winsocki (I believe that is the phrase) with his personal version of the tearful and tragic Hamlet.

This, I maintain, is nonsense.

I am never happier than when playing Clifton Webb in the role of Clifton Webb. And as to my ability to replace the dauntless Drew Pearson for a day, let there be no trepidation. The doubts of the faint-hearted I can demolish as I once did a brash producer who suggested, after one of my first Mr. Belvedere pictures, that Webb would no longer be speaking to small fry now that he had achieved this enormous success.

"My dear man," I replied icily, "I have always been a success. One more will not unsettle me."

I am not a modest man, as someone once said (probably I, myself), and yet I must confess that there is an ego-tingling element of piquancy in the knowledge that I can assume, temporarily, at least, the cloud-topped and jovian mantle of a syndicated pundit dispensing last-minute exclusives from a hot seat on Olympus.

I can see the advantages, but without altogether desiring them. Not permanently, anyway. From what I recall of my Greek mythology, Jove was a man with ample power, but with a certain quota of headaches also. I do not enjoy headaches. I do not enjoy hot seats, either, nor all the concomitants of power, but sometimes they are unavoidable.

Take, for illustration, a certain picture I have recently completed at 20th Century-Fox called "Woman's World." It is a modern fable dealing with that phenomenon of our times, the contemporary American woman. It tells how three wives, June Allyson, Lauren Bacall and Arlene Dahl, influence the selection from among their respective husbands—Cornel Wilde, Fred McMurray and Van Heflin—of a man to fill a $125,000 post in my motorcar company.

Many Other Talents

In my role of God-like puppeteer it would have been so easy to succumb to the Belvederean legend and throw oatmeal in their faces,—as I once did to an impertent mite in "sitting Pretty." But then this would have violated a high resolve to demonstrate Webb's many other unique Thespian talents. Instead, the attitude I chose was Olympian and even Webbian. Humor, sympathy and justice; the light touch, the airy gesture. A chance to needle my bewildered puppets, but still to enjoy their bon mots.

For instance, there is a scene in the picture where I have brought together, at a cocktail party in New York, the three wives and the three husbands (tax deductible, of course), as well as some of the other officials of my company, also tax deductible. The wives and the husbands are on trial and they know it. And yet June Allyson, frightened and nervous that her husband will get the job, makes a slight faux pas because of one martini too many. Hiccups, unexpected and uninhibited, overcome her. Her inner struggle plays a counter-point to my welcoming speech.

"Let me suggest," I say to the assemblage, "that when we are together we will have a much better time if we all forget that I am president of our company. (A smile towards the women.) I want particularly for you young ladies to enjoy this visit. And that can best be accomplished by just being yourselves."

Miss Allyson responds with another explosive hiccup.

"Thank you," I say, with a bow and a smile towards Miss Allyson. "That's just what I mean."

Webbian, pure Webbian.

All Things Possible

Naturally, only the pervading genius of Webb, to whose screen personality all things are possible, keeps this shining assemblage and its shiny surroundings out of the realm of fairy tales. I play Jove, I look down from Olympus, even as Mr. Drew Pearson. If I were not enchanted with the role and did not feel competent to portray it, I would not be doing it. I enjoy my sublease on the mountain top. as who wouldn't?

But then, of course, there comes the end of the page, the path down the mountain. Jove departs and Webb becomes Webb again. As I once said somewhere (I invariably remember my best lines), "If you want audiences to have an appetite for more of you, always leave them hungry."

Did I hear a hiccup? Thank you very much; that's just what I mean.

Widespread Storms

No part of the United States is entirely exempt from electrical storms, although they are comparatively rare on the Pacific coast. On the average, thunderstorms are twice as frequent in Ohio as they are in northern New England.

Sego Symbol

The Mormons adopted the sego lily as a symbol because its edible roots served as a kind of "manna" to their early settlers in Utah, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Spirituals

Negro spirituals are sacred folk songs created or modified by the Negroes in America. Although many of them have been arranged and interpreted by known composers, their words and music are traditional and their individual authorship is not known.

Teeth Care Important

Consistent care of their teeth is of marked benefit to the sight of human beings. Decayed or abscessed teeth often affect the eyes and, in extreme cases, may even cause blindness.

Started Industry

The American wool industry was begun about 1643 by wool combers and carders from Yorkshire, England, who settled in Rowley, Mass.

Increase In Flow of Urine Is Called Form Of Diabetes

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

"My daughter, age 17, has diabetes inspidus," writes Mrs. G. "Is this serious? She has been using a hay-fever spray and I wonder if this could be the cause."

The hay fever spray is almost certainly not the cause of the rather unusual condition known as diabetes insipidus. In discussing this condition it should be said first that this is not the same as the so-called sugar diabetes or diabetes mellitus which is a much more common disorder.

In diabetes insipidus large quantities of urine which does not contain sugar are passed. This disease is more common in young people than in older ones and in boys and men than in girls and women. The underlying cause usually cannot be discovered.

A family tendency, perhaps a truly inherited one, has been suggested as responsible in the majority of cases but this is not always clear.

* * *

The symptoms usually develop gradually although sudden onsets have been reported. A great increase in the amount of urine excreted is the most constant symptom and an increased amount of thirst is also frequent.

Someone suffering from diabetes insipidus may pass nearly four gallons of urine in twenty-four hours.

The inconvenience of this disease is obvious especially if the victim attempts to quench the accompanying thirst.

* * *

The appetite is likely to be normal, which is different from that in the common form of sugar diabetes in which hunger is likely to be excessive.

In many cases the general health does not seem to suffer. People have been known to live with diabetes insipidus for fifty years; some spontaneous recoveries have taken place.

The location of the trouble is fairly well known. It is pretty well agreed that the source lies in a specific portion of the brain.

Irritation or injury of this region will act on a portion of the pituitary gland, reduce its hormone production and produce the symptoms of diabetes insipidus.

If a specific cause, such as a tumor, cannot be found, giving a hormone obtained from the pituitary gland usually brings about relief of symptoms which lasts for many hours.

These treatments, however, have to be repeated and od not bring about a permanent cure. Until more has been learned about the original cause of diabetes insipidus it is unlikely that any complete cure can be devised.

Humans Can Contract Disease Psittacosis From the Birds

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Disturbing reports of outbreaks of a disease known as psittacosis have appeared in many corners of the continent during the past few months. That this is not totally unexpected is shown by the publication of an article forecasting an increase in this disease in the American Journal of Public Health last November.

Psittacosis is not a new diseas ebut it can and does produce most unpleasant symptoms and it is a matter of considerable concern also because it can be spread to human beings either from birds kept as pets, or from other people with the disease.

* * *

Psittacosis is caused by a virus. In human beings it produces a high fever with symptoms in the lung much like those of pneumonia. In a person ill with the disease the virus can be found in the sputum and if this sputum is injected into mice it will produce the disease in these animals.

The diease is primarily one of birds, such as parrots, parakeets and lovebirds. It attacks these birds readily. In one shipment of 161 parrots, parakeets and conures from South America, only 16 were found to be free of the virus which causes this disease.

* * *

In 1932, 76 cases of psittacosis were reported in the United States and seven died from the disease. During 1933, only 15 cases and four deaths were reported.

The rapid improvement came from a quarantine which was imposed by the federal government on the shipping of parrots and similar birds between the states. Since that time our public health services have been engaged in a continuous battle to eliminate psittacosis in susceptible birds. Infected birds have been destroyed and the importantion of infected birds has been prohibited.

* * *

The disease has not entirely died out among human beings, and the likelihood of contracting it seems to be increasing again.

Psittacosis in human beings resembles virus or a typical pneumonia. Fortunately there is a specific test available which can be used to make the diagnosis definite.

So far as treatment is concerned, either serum taken from a victim of the disease who is convalescing or a goat serum which has been produced, seem to shorten the course of human psittacosis. Some of the antibiotic preparations probably offer the best hope of prompt and effective treatment.

The important point, however, is for anyone who keeps birds to make sure that their pets are healthy and free of psittacosis virus by having them examined by a veterinarian.

No Night Hail

Hail seldom falls at night, for the same reason that it seldom falls in cool weather. The earth, being cooler at night, does not then furnish enough rising air currents to force raindrops to a sufficient height to freeze them.

"Tom Thumb"

The real name of Tom Thumb, perhaps the most famous midget who has ever lived, was Charles Sherwood Stratton. Stratton was a true midget, not a dwarf. He was born at Bridgeport, Conn., in 1838.

Protective Measure

When a dog lies down, even in a room, he turns around a few times. This habit dates back to the days when a dog made himself a bed in tall grass. The dog turned around so that he could lie on a bed of trampled grass and be protected by the tall grass growing around him.

Famous Crimes—No. 16—

Girl's Death Led to Death Of Probably Innocent Man

Editor's Note—Little Mary Phagan was found murdered in the basement of the pencil factory where she worked. Flaring public passion led to a lynching, spread anti-Semitism throughout the South and blasted a governor's career. Here is the story of a brutal crime—and perhaps a flagrant miscarriage of justice.

By JACK SIMMS

ATLANTA, Aug. 28 (AP)—It was Saturday, a warm sunny April 26 and Confederate Memorial Day. Final preparations were under way along Peachtree Street in the heart of the business district for the 1913 parade to honor the men of the South's "lost cause."

Out in Bellwood—then a suburb of Atlanta—Mary Phagan was getting ready to go to the parade. Although only 13, she had grown up rapidly and looked older than her age. She was pretty and blue-eyed, and had long blonde hair.

She ate an early lunch, put on her best dress and told her parents goodbye. She said she planned to stop at the pencil factory where she worked, at 10 cents an hour, and pick up her pay envelope before going to the parade. Then she skipped off and caught the street-car into town.

But she never saw the parade. She was dead before it started, the victim of a brutal murder. Face downward, partially covered with sawdust and shavings, her body was found in a dark corner of the pencil factory basement at 4 a. m. Sunday by a night watchman.

The events which followed ultimately took the life of a young man perhaps innocent of the crime, smashed the political career of a governor, helped place a circuit solicitor in the governor's office, and spread a poisonous wave of anti-Semitism throughout Georgia and the South.

Patrolmen answering the frightened watchman's call were led to the factory basement. In the light of a single gas jet, they saw the cold, rigid corpse. A rope around the girl's neck cut into the flesh and there was a deep gash at the base of the skull.

Factory Supt. Leo M. Frank identified the girl. With his aid, officers started a roundup of suspects. Detective Chief Newport Lanford headed the investigation.

"It's almost a sure bet that the murderer of Mary Phagan is someone employed at the factory," Lanford told reporters.

Newt Lee, the Negro watchman, was taken to city jail, handcuffed to a chair and interrogated for several hours. Four other suspects were arrested, three of them at the suggestion of Frank. Lee was moved to another jail as a precautionary step against mob violence.

No evidence was found to incriminate any of the suspects. And when detectives reviewed the case suspicion shifted to Frank.

The 29-year-old bespectacled superintendent, a Cornell University graduate, immediately asserted his innocense, saying: "Such an atrocious crime has never entered my mind. I am a home-loving and God-fearing man."

Frank, nephew of the pencil company owner and a Jew, was born in Texas but had spent much of his life in Brooklyn. He was married but had no children.

Eleven days after the murder, a coroner's jury issued a verdict "that Mary Phagan came to her death by strangulation." It recommended that both Frank and the watchman be held for a grand jury invesigation.

Solicitor General Hugn M. Dorsey, whose election later as governor was partly attributed to publicity from the case, had doubts as to whether he should seek an indictment against Frank or Lee. Dorsey made his decision on May 24 and Frank was indicted for first-degree murder.

On the same day, the Atlanta newspapers printed a "confession" which Jim Conley, a Negro janitor, had given to police. Conley, previously convicted of several petty offenses and known to police as a "bad character," accused Frank of killing the girl. He said at Frank's direction he had helped carry the body to the factory basement from a second-floor room.

With Frank's indictment came a flood of protests from Northern newspapers. They asserted the young man was the target of racial and religious bigots.

The trial opened in Fulton County Superior Court July 28, 1913, with Judge L. S. Roan presiding. Dorsey headed a team of prosecutors. Reuben R. Arnold and Luther Z. Rosser, outstanding criminal lawyers of the day, represented Frank.

The state contended Mary was killed as the consequence of premeditated rape by Frank and that he had previously seduced a number of other girl employes at the factory.

Dorsey maintained Frank had picked Conley to act as a lookout for him during his immoral acts and that Conley was told to report to the office on the day of the murder for "another of these occasions."

The state theorized that when Mary went to Frank's office for her pay envelope Frank struck her and, while she lay unconscious on the floor, raped her. Afraid she would later accuse him of the attack, he strangled her with a rope. Then, the prosecution said, Frank called Conley and the two carried the body to the basement.

An undertaker and four medical examiners were called. Four of the five said they found no conclusive evidence that rape had been committed.

Frank gave to the jury a time and place account of his activities on Memorial Day. More than 20 defense witnesses corroborated the defendant's testimony.

Arnold and Rosser called scores of witnesses whose testimony was designed to discredit statement by Conley. The attorney hammered away at Conley's criminal record and asserted he was not a competent witness.

Others testified to the defendant's reputation for morality and good conduct toward factory employes.

In all, more than 200 witnesses had testified by the time the case went to the jury, in the fifth week of trial.

Judge Roan, fearing violence in the event Frank was found innocent, ordered the courtroom cleared of spectators and the defendant sent to his cell before the jury returned its verdict.

When it came — on Aug. 25 — he was found guilty as charged.

Conley was sentenced to a year on a chain gang "for his part" in the slaying but was released before serving his time. Lee, the watchman who had at first been kept from mob violence, was not indicted and went free.

Frank's attorneys presented more than 100 different grounds in seeking a new trial. Judge Roan turned down the appeal and sentenced Frank to hang. The judge said he personally was not thoroughly convinced of Frank's guilt but that he would follow the decision of the jury.

Nearly two years of legal maneuvers followed. The case reached the U.S. Supreme Court twice. Both appeals were denied.

In April 1915, the State Parole Commission by a 2-1 vote turned down Frank's final appeal for clemency. The dissenter argued that Conley as well as Frank could have committed the crime and that robbery as well as rape could have been the motive.

Gov. John M. Slaton, who said he had received 100,000 letters concerning the case, was not satisfied. He announced he would make a personal investigation. Then Judge Roan from his deathbed urged clemency.

On July 21, a few hours after convict No. 965 was secretly moved from jail in Atlanta to the state prison farm at Milledgeville, the governor commuted Frank's death sentence.

Angry mobs, whipped into a frenzy by continued anti-Semitic propaganda, staged demonstrations throughout the state for two days. One group of 200 started to march on the State Capitol. Another mob assembled before the governor's mansion. Both were stopped by state militia before violence occurred, but Slaton was dead politically the moment he commuted the sentence.

During the night of Aug. 16, while Frank was recovering from a throat wound inflicted by another prisoner in an assassination attempt, 40 armed men arrived at Milledgeville and forced prison officials to surrender the prisoner.

Frank, dragged from his bed, handcuffed, was driven 165 miles in an auto caravan to Marietta. About dawn the following morning, his body was found hanging from a tree in an orchard only a short distance from the birthplace and grave of the girl he had been convicted of slaying.

State officials promised quick action and offered rewards for information leading to the arrest of those responsible for the lynching. No arrests were ever made.

A judge not directly connected with the case said several years later he knew who killed Mary Phagan and that it was not Frank. The judge died without naming the person.

Bitter Sage

Copyright 1954 by Frank Gruber. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

By Frank Gruber

THE STORY: Luke Miller's fight to abolish the "wide-open" gambling and saloons in the frail town of Sage City has resulted in warfare with Jacob Fugger who rules the town. Fugger has sent his henchman, Bill Bleek, to Miller's newspaper to sabotage the press and dump the type cases. Wes Tancred, who is employed by Miller under the name of John Bailey, has been at Fugger's store, where he has dumped the merchandise and spilled molasses over it. He lets it be known that he did this and Fugger sends Bleek to settle scores with "Bailey." A fight starts in McCoy's Saloon.

* * *

XIV

TANCRED smashed the heavy beer glass into Bleek's face. He followed instantly with his left into Bleek's stomach and was appalled by the muscular hardness of it. Yet Bleek reeled back. He wiped beer and blood from his face.

"All right, Bailey," he said. "But don't ask me to quit."

He sprang forward and threw his right fist at Tancred's head. Tancred rolled aside, lashed back. His fist connected but his body also encountered Bleek's left, a solid ramrod of sinew and bone.

Tancred staggered back and Bleek crowded forward. His right connected with Tancred's head, his left flailed into Tancred's stomach. A roaring filled Tancred's head and then Bleek's right exploded again on his jaw and the floor rushed up to Tancred. He fell to his knees and threw out both hands to brace himself. He remained there an instant—until Bleek kicked him savagely.

Bleek had meant it. It was to be a fight to the finish. Total unconsciousness would not stop it. Bleek would still kick in his ribs and batter his head.

Tancred dropped flat upon the floor, called on his reserves and rolled aside. Bleek's hobnailed boot grazed the skin of his face and Tancred grabbed the foot and twisted hard. Bleek crashed to the floor.

He landed hard and for a moment the breath was knocked from him. He made his feet to find that Tancred was up and grabbing at a nearby chair. Bleek lunged forward. Tancred smashed the chair over Bleek's head. It shattered to splinters, and Bleek dropped to his knees.

Bleek came up streaming blood. His scalp was matted with blood but he still came at Tancred.

Tancred hit him, in the face, in the stomach. He hit him four times and Bleek hit him once and Tancred staggered back. He didn't fall and his back touched the bar. Bleek caught him there. He threw his arms about Tancred and put on pressure.

* * *

BLEEK'S grip grew tighter and Tancred could scarcely breathe. With a tremendous effort he got the heel of his left hand under Bleek's chin and forced it up an inch. He got his right hand under the chin and muscled it up another inch. Then he slipped his left hand down to get a firmer leverage and, holding the head up with his left hand alone, smashed his right hand into Bleek's already bloodied face.

It was a last-ditch effort. There was no breath left in his body, his lungs were threatening to collapse. He hit Bleek's nose, his eyes, his cheeks. Again and again, savagely. A groan came from the other man's lips. Tancred struck once more and Bleek let go. He reeled away, blinded in pain and for a long moment Tancred could not follow.

Air rushed into his tortured lungs. Then Bleek, by sheer instinct, lurched forward once more.

Tancred hit him. Bleek's stomach muscles had lost their rigidity. His fists sunk deep. Groans came from the bruiser. Bleek swayed but did not fall. Tancred smashed his face, over and over. Bleek's hands hung helplessly at his sides. His great body quivered.

Tancred stepped back. His fists weighed a ton each. He could not lift them to hit Bleek again. And Bleek was still on his feet.

Jacob Fugger stepped out of the crowd and took Bleek's arm. He turned him toward the door. And Bleek moved as Fugger led him out.

Tancred looked around a ring of quiet faces.

Lee Kinnaird's face appeared.

"Where do you want to go?"

"Miller's shop."

KINNAIRD took Tancred's arm and led him out of the saloon. On the sidewalk he saw that Tancred could walk alone and let go of his arm. But he went with him to the print shop and helped Tancred take off his coat and bloodied shirt. He whistled softly as he saw the bruises on Tancred's body.

"You're hurt."

Tancred nodded and dropped heavily to his cot, but only to a sitting position. Kinnaird found a bucket of cold water, a towel. With an effort Tancred raised himself to his feet and, soaking the towel in the bucket, sloshed his chest and stomach and arms.

Kinnaird watched and after a while he said, "That's the first fight Bleek ever lost."

"I don't feel like I won it."

"You didn't lose, so you won." Kinnaird paused. "He'll be after you again. If he can't beat you with his fists he'll try another way."

"I suppose so."

"And Manny Harpending? You'll have to fight him sooner or later."

Tancred dropped the soggy towel into the bucket of water. He exhaled wearily. "I've been thinking it was a mistake to come to Sage City."

"That's what I said, when I first came here."

"But you're leaving now."

Kinnaird hesitated, then shook his head. "That's what Fugger would like, but I'll stick around a spell."

CONFESSION? — Ask The Man Who Goes There!

Catholics go to Confession to a priest for one reason only: to obtain divine forgiveness for their sins.

But why, you ask, go to a priest? Why not confess our sins directly to God?

Ask the man who goes to Confession and here's what he will tell you: Sin is an offense against God; it must be forgiven by God. It is God, not man, who determines how forgiveness must be obtained. Christ plainly pointed this out when He empowered His Apostles and their successors to forgive sins or to refuse forgiveness.

"Whose sins you shall forgive," Christ said, "they are forgiven them; whose sins you shall retain, they are retained" (John 20:22, 23). Thus Christ authorized the Apostles, and their successors, to pardon or to deny pardon as they judge the sinner worthy or unworthy. To do this they had to know what they were forgiving... the secret dispositions of the sinner... his sorrow and willingness to repair the wrong done to his neighbor by his sins. Who could make this known but the sinner himself—and what is this but Confession?

But Confession—the Sacrament of penance—is only one of the seven Sacraments Christ left in His Church. Yes, seven—no more and no less! Christ's religion is not merely a message to be accepted, but a life to be lived—from the cradle to the grave. Christ's seven Sacraments are the answer to man's seven basic needs.

Man is born, but he needs to be reborn a Christian in the Sacrament of Baptism. He is nourished, but he needs Christian nourishment in Holy Communion, the Sacrament of the Eucharist. He grows, but he needs to grow and be strengthened in Christian life by the Sacrament of Confirmation. He is cured of disease, but he needs a remedy for sin, so destructive of Christian life, and this he finds in the Sacrament of Penance.

Man lives in society which needs officials to promote the common good—and for his life in the Church, he finds officials provided by the Sacrament of Orders. He perpetuates the human race in marriage, which Christ made the Sacrament of Matrimony. And at death, he needs consolation and strength for the last dread hour which he finds in the Last Anointing — the Sacrament of Extreme Unction.

If you would like to know more about each of the seven Sacraments, write today for a free pamphlet which gives important information concerning them. Ask for Pamphlet No. K-5.

Clever Arrangements Make Unusually Nice Flower Show

Beauty and originality was in abundance in the displays Thursday on the second floor of the Floricultural Building. It was Missouri Garden Clubs Federation Day at the State Fair and garden club women from all over the state were registering at the table at the upstairs entrance, where members of the local clubs were welcoming the guests.

All afternoon and evening crowds thronged there to see the displays.

The table settings were in shades of browns, greens and yellows. The table that was receiving the most comment won fourth place. The table cloth was of gunny sacks with a colorful edge of yarn, and was set with brown cereal bowls in buff colored plates and milkglass mugs. The centerpiece as a buff colored pottery rooster with golden rod and foliage, and around it were ears of red corn, partly shelled, okra and egg plant.

As Fair visitors would pass by there was always somebody saying: "Look at that tablecloth", in a very surprised and amazed tone of voice.

The table winning first was covered with a brown cloth with lime napkins and the square wooden pedestal fruit bowl was filled with fruit and leaves of mother-in-law's tongue. The dishes, too, were brown.

The table receiving second place also had a brown cloth with yellow napkins and yellow plates. The glasses were amber. The fruit bowl was a round wooden pedestal style filled with fruit in shades of orange, yellow and green.

Brown was the color for the cloth on the third table, too, and the square shaped dishes had a plaid design in green and brown. There were matching mugs and the container with the centerpiece matched the dishes. The arrangement was of red cherry tomatoes, a small squash, okra and large, shiney green leaves.

The mantel arrangement that was first had a long, shallow blue container with goldenrod and yellow zinnias. Second place was an arrangement of red cockscomb with dark foliage, in a flat black container and other in a matching black vase. Third was combination of cockscomb and cedar in round white containers.

There were all kinds of ideas in the theme: "Old MacDonald Had a Farm," with old MacDonald himself in the arrangement that won first. Rope, wood and a dish mop, with a face on it and a cork nose, made MacDonald, and was arranged with flowers and vegetables. Second place was a small iron kettle filled with cockscomb; third, a shaving set with an arrangement of tiny red zinnias, and fourth, a reed jug with grain.

In the class of "As in days gone by", seed pods, grain, foliages, cockscomb, golden rod and sun flowers were used to make many clever arrangements.

"Slumbertime is Coming Soon" had many nice arrangements, the first place being a tall green vase with foliage and yellow flowers and a candle in a holder. Second was the picture of a sleepy baby, a toy lamb and a basket vase with roses in yellow and peach shades. Third was a small pottery angel prayer beside a vase of red crepe myrtle and green leaves.

"Hush-a-bye Ma Baby" arrangements were popular with the fair crowd. The first was entitled "Lullaby of the Leaves" with an old fashioned miniature cradle filled with tiny leaves of vines and at the side a figurine of a child praying. Second was a pottery figure of a little girl with yellow chickens napping and the background was of zinnias, snapdragons, and mother-in-law's tongue—and the music, "Hush-a-bye Ma Baby". Fourth was a doll's blue cradle filled with pink and orchid flowers. Although it did not receive an award, a miniature cabin with a Negro mammy on the porch with a baby in a cradle, and another sleeping inside, was very effective. Flowers looked like they were growing around the rail fence.

"The Ages Have Left Them There" were: first, driftwood with red cannas and foliage; second, a piece of finished driftwood with pink cannas and live forever. One of the most beautiful arrangements in this class, although it did not receive an award, combined driftwood, seaweed, and other things from the sea with colors of aqua blue and peach shades. The flowers used were small yellow lilies.

"Proud Art Thou in Classic Beauty, very beautiful arrangements, the first of light yellow roses and vines with a lovely figurine of old fashioned girl dressed in yellow and white. The second was a white pitcher with yellow roses and a figurine of a boy. Third as a madonna with background of canna leaves and pink roses, and fourth a pink vase with pink and white roses and figurines of a little boy and girl.

The "Autumn Paints in Brightest Schene" were arrangements in various types of containers of zinnias in shades of red, yellow and orange.

There were also miniature arrangements and specimens of flowers that were of high quality

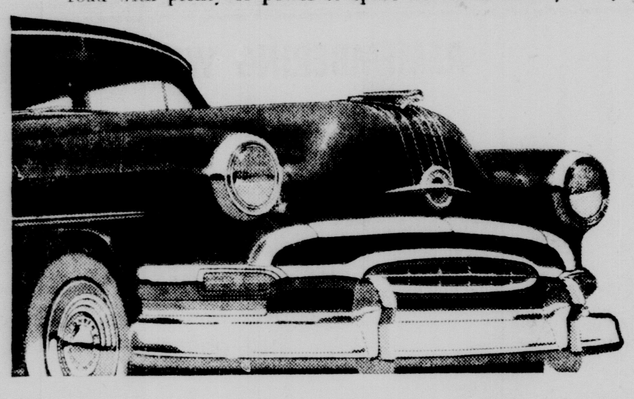
1 Pontiac is One of the Greatest Cars Ever Built!

Match today's Pontiac with America's finest cars and you'll get a dramatic picture of Pontiac value. First of all, Pontiac is big—bigger, in fact, than many cars costing hundreds of dollars more. Pontiac is beautiful—with its distinctive Silver Streak styling. Inside, you'll find genuine fine-car luxury and appointments—along with the roominess and comfort that come only with a long wheelbase. But the big surprise comes when you test Pontiac's performance. See how alert it is to every demand in traffic, how it handles and corners almost without effort, how it takes to the open road with plenty of power to spare and saves money every mile.



2 Pontiac has the Best Resale Value in its Price Class!

Along with all its fine-car size, luxury and performance, Pontiac has a very special attribute no car at any price can beat—its unsurpassed reputation for year-in, year-out dependability. Pontiac's carefree, economical long life and its proved record of amazingly low maintenance expense are so widely known and acknowledged that it commands the highest resale value in its price class. Because Pontiac is America's most desirable used car, your original investment comes back in greater measure when you trade.

3 Pontiac is Priced Just Above the Lowest!

After you've convinced yourself of Pontiac's value, after you've considered all the good things you've heard about its dependability—see how it compares dollar-wise. Despite the fact that it's a fine car in every sense of the term, Pontiac is priced so near the lowest that if you can afford any new car you can afford a Pontiac.

4 We'll Make You a Deal You Can't Afford to Miss!

Your Wardrobe
by Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

A hand picked wardrobe can lose much of its glamour and meaning if you haven't the correct props for it. Summer is wonderful but does lots of things to tear us down so we don't look as well groomed as we did in the spring. So stop and give yourself a thorough inspection and start improving yourself now. First your hair is probably sun-streaked and dry, so give it some extra attention and get out your brush for nightly use. Our skin, too, gets dry and of various shades, so begin using extra creams and lotions also bleach your sun tan. Some of us gain weight during the summer, some lose. Some go without girdles or wear light weight ones that do very little to control the figure. So now is the time to watch your food intake, begin exercises and do whatever is necessary towards getting yourself back into the habit of good grooming.

Don't wait until a special occasion arises to give yourself this check-up—do it now and be glamorous the first day you get into your fall clothes.

Patrol Chiefs Warns Drivers to Use Good Sense on Labor Day

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The superintendent of the State Highway Patrol said today it isn't worthwhile to be "dead right."

Col. Hugh H. Waggoner, the superintendent, asked all drivers to "be on their good behavior" next weekend, the three-day Labor Day weekend.

"There are rules and regulations to determine who has the right of way," Waggoner said. "But rights or rights of way are not so valuable that a driver should risk his life for them."

It would be better, he said, to concede the right of way to the other fellow if in doing so you make the road safer for yourself and everyone else.

He urged that all drivers reduce speed at least 10 miles an hour on the crowded highways and "use good common sense and courtesy to get home safe and alive from the Labor Day weekend trip."

Pettis Co. Museum Gets Old Link-Pin Train Car Coupling

The historical collection at the Pettis County courthouse has a "new" item that will be recognized by Sedalia's railroad old-timers, a cast iron link and pin coupling.

This device, used to connect train cars as long as a hundred years ago and not discarded for more modern and safe methods until after 1893, consists of two bars about two inches thick and 18 inches long and a link of about the same length and thickness.

The link would be inserted into the open ends of the cars' "tongues" and the pins would be dropped down through holes in the "tongues" to hold the link in place and so connect the cars.

The old-timers may remember, too, some of their railroad friends who lost a finger or a hand because of this simple device. The common method of making a coupling was to fasten one end of the link with one of the pins, then prop up the second pin in the other "tongue" by means of a notch cut into it so that the pin would fall as soon as the free end of the link rammed the "tongue." The man would then hold up the free end of the link to guide it into the open end of the second "tongue." His hand was often caught and mashed in the process.

To prevent this, the pin knife was introduced, and one of these, too, is now on display at the courthouse. It was simply a thin-edged rod used by a switchman to lift up the free end of the link. If the cars jolted together, only the pin knife was caught and the switchman kept his fingers.

This particular set of link and pins was unearthed by the big Kansas City flood in 1951, in the Frisco 19th St. yard. Pitted by rust, they were cleaned and painted with a clear, protective coating. Others were found when new freight house docks were constructed and some were dug up in the Rosedale yards, where new office buildings are being built.

This set was collected, prepared and donated to the courthouse museum by Homer M. Riggs, locomotive engineer for the Frisco Railroad in Kansas City. They were presented to C. F. Scotten, president of the Pettis County Historical Society.

With them was sent an article describing an advertisement of a self-acting coupler printed in an old railroad newspaper of 1856. Even then means were being sought to reduce the toll of lives and maimed limbs among the switchmen, but the old links and pins continued to be used for another 40 years.

The self-acting coupling was merly another form of the link and pins, but it contained a catch inside by which to hold the link horizontal so that it would couple without having to be lifted up.

"In 1893, Congress took note of the slaughter of rail switchmen," the article states, "and passed the 'Automatic Coupler Act.' It required railroads to equip all their cars with couplers which would connect when two cars came together."

The pins on display at the museum were in active service on the old Kansas City, Fort Scott, and Gulf Railroad, in later years the old Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis. This was purchased by the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad Co.

The display may be seen on the main floor in one of the cases in the center.

Government Reduces Space It Is Leasing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has reduced the space it leases in Washington to the lowest total in 28 years, the General Services Administration said today.

As of now, GSA said, the government is leasing 1,079,916 square feet in the District of Columbia. This compares with 7,068,506 square feet under lease on June 30, 1945—the peak during the nearly three decades in which such records have been kept.

Byrd held an 80-72 margin in county unit nominating votes, which govern the nomination much as electoral votes determine the outcome of a presidential election. Byrd also had a 4,000 edge in the statewide popular vote.

Regional Library Notes—

Patrons May Get Phonograph Records of All Kinds Free

Phonograph records are available for the free use of patrons of the Boonslick Regional Library. These may be checked out just as books are checked from the library and are to be found on the bookmobile as well as at Boonville and Sedalia headquarters. The records on hand are mostly of classical music and include selections by Beethoven, Tschaikovsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff and other famous composers. On the lighter side there are selections from "The King and I," George Gershwin, "South Pacific" and Latin American favorites. The library owns three operas, "LaBoheme," "La Traviata" and "Don Pasquelle."

On order and available as soon as received are several square dance records, some schottishes, polkas and a number of children's records. These will include both musical and story records. "Peter and the Wolf," "Nutcracker Suite" and selections from "Hansel and Gretel" are among those on order. "Cinderella," "Treasure Island" and stories for the very young should be ready for circulation very soon.

Sacred music and some semi-classical music will be purchased in the next group to be ordered. The library has available one album of organ music and another of "Religious Favorites" with selections from Bach; Handel, Mozart and Rossini.

All phonograph records are of the "unbreakable" type and long-playing at a speed of 33 1-3 rounds per minute. The library will be unable to circulate the older 78 rounds per minute records because of the amount of breakage in this type of record. Regulations for circulation state that the complete price of the record will be charged for any damage or breakage. Records may not be renewed but must be returned by the date they are due.

Bob Slater, KC, Wins 20-Mile Event In IMCA World Record Time In Big Car Races Sat.

Bobby Grim, Indianapolis, Cracks IMCA World Record For Three-Mile Lap In 1:55.62; Slater Goes 20 Mile Distance On 1-Mile Oval In 13:05

Two IMCA world records were set for big car racing on mile dirt tracks here today when Bob Slater of Kansas City ran the 20-mile race in 13:05.21 to break the record set Aug. 29, 1953 in Sedalia by Jimmy Campbell which was 14:08.59. The other record was the three-mile lap record which was broken by Bobby Grim, Indianapolis, Ind., whose time was 1:55.62, bettering the time of Jimmy Campbell, which was set Sept. 30, 1953 at Nashville, Tenn., which was 1.58.20.

Both records are also the all time records for the International Motor Contest Association, which sanctioned the race at the Missouri State Fair. The races were conducted by the National Speedways Inc., of Chicago.

Rain which fell Saturday morning made the track slow for time trials but, as the races continued, the track became better and was in first class condition when the two events were scheduled in which records were smashed.

Sunday afternoon the state fair program will consist of Stock Car racing on the mile track. The event will be a 100-mile race and more than 50 entries have been received.

Saturday's results:

Time trials. First three fastest times for the mile: Jimmy Campbell, Bates City, Mo., :37.2; Bob Slater, Kansas City, :37.59; and Bobby Grim, Indianapolis, Ind., :37.89.

The Barney Oldfield Dash — 5 laps: Jimmy Campbell, first; Herschel Wagner, Independence, Mo., second; Bobby Grim, third. Time 3:22.39.

The Gus Schrader Dash—5 laps: Jud Larson, Kansas City, first; Bob Slater, second; Fritz Tegtmeier, Elgin, Ill., third. Time 3:15.57.

The Frank Luptow Dash, 5 laps: Andy Anderson, Hastings, Neb., first; Don Branson, Champaign, Ill., second; Curly Wadsworth, Topeka, Kan., third; Keith Saylor, Macomb, Ill., fourth. Time 3:35.87.

The Sig Hauddahl Dash—3 laps: Bobby Grim, first; Bob Slater, second; Jimmy Campbell, third. Time 1:55.62 (New track and world record, IMCA sanctioned).

Special Consolation, Australian Pursuit, 5 laps: Don Branson, first; Jim Wegscheider, St. Louis, second; Cecil Burnaugh, Los Angeles, Calif., third. Time 4:04.97.

Missouri State Fair Sweepstakes, Governor Phil M. Donnelly Trophy award, 20 miles: Bob Slater, first; Bobby Grim, second, Jud Larson, third; Jimmy Campbell, fourth; Herschel Wagner, fifth; Jim Wegscheider, sixth; Fritz Tegtmeier, seventh; Don Branson, eight; Ed Loetscher, St. Louis, ninth; Keith Saylor, tenth. Time 13:05.25. (New world record for the 20-mile, IMCA sanctioned races.) 20 cars raced in the event.

Nashua Wins Hopeful Stakes With Arcaro Up

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP)—Nashua came through with a terrific performance today in the $78,750 Hopeful Stakes to give 80-year-old trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, jockey Eddie Arcaro and the Belair Stud their first victory in the 50th running of the famous race for 2-year-olds.

Visions of a Kentucky Derby-Preakness-Belmont Triple Crown victory in 1955 must have danced before the eyes of a cheering crowd of 23,234 persons as Nashua led all the way and grabbed the decision by a bare neck over Mrs. Russell A. Firestone's Summer Tan. C. V. Whitney's Pyrenees, second choice at 7-2, was third, another length and a half back.

This was one of the greatest performances by a juvenile colt in the history of old Saratoga, where they inaugurated the sport in 1865, and Nashua's time on a track labeled fast, but actually deep, was spectacular. His clocking of 1:17 4-5 for the six and one-half furlongs was only four-fifths of a second off the track record set by such a speed horse as Boojum in 1929 and equalled by the flashy Blue Border in 1946.

Santee Figures Large In New US Track Marks

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 28 (AP)—Kansas' great miler, Wes Santee, is the key man in four new national collegiate track records, approved by the track and field rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

They are:

Mile run — 4:00.6, by Santee, June 4, 1954, at Compton (Calif.) invitational meet. Supplants Santee's old record of 4:02.4, set at Compton in 1953.

Two-mile run—8:58.0, by Santee, May 8, 1954, at Arkansas-Oklahoma A&M-Kansas triangular meet at Lawrence, Kan. Supplants old record of 8:58.3 set by Don Lash, Indiana, 1936.

Sprint medley relay—3:20.2 by Kansas University (Frank Cindrich, Ralph Moody, Dick Blair, Santee), April 2, 1954, at Texas Relays. Supplants old record of 3:22.7 set by New York University 1950.

Distance medley relay—9:50.4 by Kansas University (Cindrich, Lloyd Koby, Art Dalzell, Santee), April 24, 1954, at Drake Relays. Supplants old record of 9:56.3 set by Michigan, 1952.

Stolen Base May Be Lost Art Of Game

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—Is base stealing becoming a lost art

In 1911 the New York Giants stole 347 bases for the modern club record and two years later the Washington Senators raised the American League standard to 288.

In 1915 Detroit's Ty Cobb posted his amazing mark of 96 thefts.

This year, with the season well in its last quarter, the Chicago White Sox lead the American League with 71 stolen bases and the St. Louis Cardinals top the National with 50.

The individual leaders are Milwaukee's Billy Bruton with 26 and Boston's Jackie Jensen with 18. The figures are through Aug. 23.

From 1900-1909 the individual base stealing leaders averaged 52.4 per season for both leagues. The number dwindled to 27.4 for the four-year period from 1950-1953.

Only one positive stealing record has been surpassed in the past 24 years, this being Pete Reiser's seven steals of home for Brooklyn in 1946.

The only other records since 1930 are negative ones—such as the fewest stolen bases for one sason, 17 by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1949 in the National League and by the 1953 St. Louis Browns in the American.

The general emphasis recently has been on the power game with batters swinging for the long ball rather than eking in runs via speed on the base paths. It has been 10 years since anyone has stolen 40 or more bases in the American League. George Stirnweiss stole 55 for the New York Yankees in 1944. In the National, not reputed to be a swinger's league until recently, you have to go back to 1929 when Hazen (Kiki) Cyler stole 43.

Yet from 1900 to 1929 there were only three seasons in the National League when less than 40 stolen bass were enough to lead the league. For the same period, the were only sven such years in the American League and in one of these, 1906, John Anderson of Washington and Elmer Flick of Cleveland shared the lead with 39.

With batters setting their sights on home runs, it's ironic that while the National League average for home run leaders rose from 31.2 for the 1920-1929 decade to 43.3 from 1950-1953, the American League average fell off from 47.9 to 36.3 for the same periods.

Gavilan Title Put On Line Wed. Night

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28 (AP)—Kid Gavilan, who longs to be a dancer but has realized he makes better music and more good Yankee dollars with his fists, defends his welterweight title here Wednesday night against the challenge of Johnny Saxton of New York.

The Cuban Keed has by-passed the first five challengers in his division to swap blows with the 24-year-old Saxton in a scheduled 15-round bout at Connie Mack Stadium. And unless he's lost the old touch, Gavilan shouldn't have too much trouble making a successful venture of this eighth defense of the crown he won in 1951.

Gavilan hasn't defended the 147-pound crown since last November when he slaughtered Johnny Bratton in a Chicago ring. His last fight was in April when he failed in an effort to annex the middleweight title from Carl Bobo Olson. This will be the champion's 118th fight since he took to the ring as a professional. He has won 99, lost 14, drew 4 and scored 27 knockouts.

The 28-year-old Gavilan, training for the bout at Summit, N. J., says the right hand he claims to have injured in the Olson fight is as good as new. Gavilan fought Olson one handed most of the way, contending he had broken a bone in his right hand training for the fight. The Illinois Athletic Commission said its doctors examined Gavilan before the Olson fight and found nothing wrong with his right hand.

Gavilan went home to Cameguay Cuba, ostensibly to rest the hand. Then he signed for the Saxton bout for July 14, later cancelling the engagement on the grounds X-rays disclosed a broken bone. He has been operating a song and dance troupe in Cuban night clubs and is reported to have lost as much as $40,000 in the venture.

The Kid hopes to make up for his show business losses in this Saxton bout. Herman Taylor, who is promoting the bout in cooperation with the International Boxing Club of New York, says the champion will draw 40 per cent of an expected $80,000 gate and a share of the receipts from television. The fight will be televised nationally CBS. Saxton is to get 20 per cent of the net gate and some TV money.

Dean Of American Rifle Sharpshooters Honored

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Aug. 28 (AP)—John W. Hession, 76-year-old dean of American rifle sharpshooters, celebrated 50 years of active shooting competition at the National Rifle and Pistol matches being held here.

It was at Ft. Riley, Kan., that Hession—known as "Jack" to thousands of shooting enthusiasts in all parts of the country—first competed in the national matches.

Since that first match in 1904 the Florida man has held every world's record from 200 to 1,200 yards at one time or another, been a member of the Olympic rifle teams, and became a familiar figure at national and international shooting competitions.

He's won the Wimbledon Cup and the Marine Corps Cup in national match competition, and in 1919 was the high man in the inter-American try-outs for the inter-allied competition in France.

There was only one hitch—Hession couldn't go to the competition along the World War I allies because the rules required all competitors to have been on active duty during the war. Hession was an ordnance expert, sent overseas by the Remington Arms Co. to direct the testing of new material.

Subsequently he was commissioned as a specialist in the Army reserve, and retired as a major several years ago.

While his record at his 50th anniversary match has not put him among the leaders, Hession blames it on the fact he did not bring any of his own rifles this year.

"I'll be back next year with a rifle I've sighted in," he promised. "And I'll be right up there among them again."

CANADIANS VISIT FAIR—Canadian fair managers from Saskatchewan were guests of the Missouri State Fair the past week. They are shown in the above photograph visiting the Cetlin and Wilson Shows on the midway. Purpose of the visit was to study the ways and means of the operation of the fair institution and study the giant operation of the huge midway. Left to right: Ross Ewing, secretary, Missouri State Fair; Mrs. Dan Kelly; Curtis Bockus, general manager, Cetlin and Wilson Shows; Mrs. N. W. Symonds; L. C. Carpenter, Commissioner of Agriculture; Mrs. Edward P. Rae; Edward P. Rae, manager of Estevan, Saskatchewan, Exhibition; Dan Kelly, manager of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, Exhibition; and N. W. Symonds, manager of North Battleford, Saskatchewan, Exhibition and vice president, Western Canada Fair Association.

Sports Scraps

(By D. Kelly Scruton)

The Missouri State Fair ends today with plenty of excitement on the program this afternoon when the 100-mile stock car race is to be conducted through the National Speedways Inc., and sanctioned by the International Motor Contest Association. This event is expected to draw one of the largest last Sunday crowds the fair has experienced due to the importance of the race to the various drivers and those interested to see the endurance of automobiles entered.

It has been a big week at the fair and certainly various types of sports enjoyed from auto racing on down to casting, a real fisherman's sport. There was a horseshoe pitching contest, tractor contests, thrill shows and with the event today four different types of racing, Jalopies, big cars on the half-mile, big-cars on the mile and now Stock Cars.

Al Sweeney promises to speed hungry fans plenty of excitement during the afternoon with time trials followed by the big race. "Anything can happen in a stock car race," Sweeney reported, "and usually does. It isn't like Jalopies where the drivers try and knock an opponent out of the way but filled with speed and endurance and close shaves, sometimes resulting in crashes."

Congratulations to Jack Frost of the Conservation Commission for his wonderful week of casting lessons given to both young and old and conducting the casting tournament.

Earl Winston, superintendent of the Horseshoe pitching tournament, did a good job in pulling in contestants from over the state. It was a worthwhile contest event and created much interest in the old "backyard" sport.

ONE of the most elated Sedalians who had horses entered in Missouri State Fair Horse Show is none other than Ernest F. Strickler of the Sedalia Refrigeration Co., and is very proud of Robert "Bob" Eoff who won the Open Junior Five-Gaited Stake, Thursday night, with King Lee.

King Lee, who was a present to Strickler from John J. McGrath, has turned into one of the most talked of horses in this section of the country in his class. King Lee is from the breeding out of a Little Strong Wall King mare, was sired by Oletha George owned by Willard Stevens, of Hughesville. He was given to McGrath by Fred Wesner when he was about six months old, and after he was a two-year old, was given to Strickler in 1952.

Strickler has become very fond of the horse and turned him over to Bob Eoff to train. The results have been outstanding and so far this season has been beaten only once on the county fair and various other horse show circuits in the area.

Strickler is proud of the results of the training of King Lee by Bob Eoff. His praises were to the skies on the trainer who only recently opened his stables at the Missouri State Fair grounds. Many other horses are being stabled with Eoff, and the list of ribbon winners is big.

Strickler has been invited to enter King Lee in the Kentucky State Fair Show which opens in Louisville Sept. 10, but has not decided whether he will make the entry.

ANOTHER Sedalian who is proud of his horses is Roy Burkholder of Burkholder's whose Walking Horse, Shepherd of the Hills won the Missouri State Fair Walking Horse Stake, Friday night.

Burkholder has Hugh Hartley also of the fair grounds handling his horses, and it was Hartley who was showing the horse when it copped off the big event in the closing horse show.

Burkholder's horse also has an array of ribbons and trophies won this year.

PROBABLY one of the proudest "papas" of his young son in Sedalia is none other than Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow, Smith-Cotton high school grid coach. Three weeks old is Ralph Phillip and already a routine of workouts is being prepared for the future star of Smith-Cotton.

Dow doesn't talk about "how beautiful!", "how nice" or "how lovely" he is. No, sir, Dow gives you a report on "how well built," "What fine legs" and "how athletic" he is. In conversation Dow is very pointed on the future of his young heir and he is assuring everybody that he will be a football player—even better than the "old man".

If you don't believe it, check up and see what the baby has to play with—yes, it is football equipment, such as various sizes of footballs and there are reports he has a helmet to fit so he can start early.

Congratulations Lillian on such a fine son, but you are going to have to take Ralph "Stub" in tow pretty quick, or he'll have him up on the practice gridiron before he can even crawl.

—o—

MANY Sedalia high school students of the 1929 class noticed a great big fellow in a Highway Patrol uniform working on the traffic on the main street of the State Fair grounds, the past week. Some thought they knew him, others weren't too sure, and still others knew they did. It was Trooper Walter Wilson, former Smith-Cotton high school football star and Captain of the 1929 team.

Trooper Wilson is now assigned to the St. Joseph troop and works around Chillicothe on Highways 36 and 65.

It was home-coming to a group of the fellows all fair week who would stop and talk with Wilson and recall this and that play.

He reported he was glad to be "home" even if it was only for 10 days.

Bannister May Retire After European Races

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 28 (AP)—Dr. Roger Bannister said today he will retire from competition for 1954—and perhaps permanently — after tomorrow's 1,500-meter final of the European championships.

It begins to appear that Bannister's race tomorrow may be the last of his noted career. It is not considered likely that the less than 4-minute miler will get back into training for the 1955 season and a year layoff might be too much for him to overcome if he decides to get into condition for the Olympics late in 1956 in Melbourne.

The young physician has long made it clear that his medical career comes ahead of running.

KEEPS RACES CLICKING — Mrs. Gwyneth White is shown checking time of auto races during time trials at the State Fair. Mrs. White, the widow of the late Gaylord White, who was one of the partners in the National Speedways, Inc. until his death early this year, is continuing with the NSI through the race season as official scorer. Mrs. White is well known in Sedalia, having attended the Missouri fairs for a number of years with her husband, not only as a visitor but also as an official of the International Motor Contest Association, which sanctions the NSI races at the Missouri State Fair. Sunday night, after her work is complete here, she departs from the racing duties to go to California where she will take up her winter time duties as a teacher in a high school in a small desert town.

ENTERS RACES—Bob Kozy, Minneapolis, Minn., has entered his 1950 Oldsmobile in the 100-mile Stock Car races to be run at the Missouri State Fair on the mile track starting at 1:30 p.m. today. Kozy is battling for honors in the Stock Car events and today's meet in Sedalia appeared attractive to him to pick up some national points.

Second Place Battle Prize In Big Seven

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 28 (AP)—Big Seven Conference football squads open practice Wednesday for a unique race that most likely will result in the second place, getting the biggest prize.

The Oklahoma Sooners, as customary, are expected to win the conference title with only "aggravating" competition along the way.

The big prize of course is the Big Seven nominee against an Atlantic Coast Conference team in the Orange Bowl. The Big Seven rule doesn't permit a member to play on successive years in the Miami New Year's Day game.

Oklahoma beat Maryland, rated No. 1 in the nation, 7-0 at Miami last Jan. 1, thereby eliminating itself from the 1955 game.

With most observers — among them the coaches of the conference assuming Oklahoma will win its seventh straight league crown this fall, then its likely the runner-up will represent the league against the Atlantic Coast Conference.

A campaign to unseat the Sooners as the Midlands football kingpins will be under way, however. The stronger contenders at this point appear to be Missouri and Kansas State, who tied for second and third last year, with Kansas and Colorado in darkhorse roles.

Nebraska and Iowa State figure to be on the upgrade.

Everybody is scheduled to check out equipment Tuesday but practice can't start before Sept. 1.

Coach Bud Wilkinson at Oklahoma has a rugged task in readying his Sooners for their opener with California at Berkley Sept. 18. He has to replace such fellows as All America guard J. D. Roberts and three of his top halfbacks. But the Sooners have 19 lettermen and a solid crop of sophomores.

End Max Boydston could become an All America candidate. Quarterback Gene Calame and halfback Buddy Leake, among others, have all star talents.

The Oklahoma squad will number about 60.

At Missouri, Coach Don Faurot has 20 lettermen returning, among them three experienced quarterbacks in Vic Eaton, Tony Scardino and Jack Brase.

Coach Bill Meek hopes for another improved season at Kansas State, where 21 of his 33 lettermen of 1953 return, although he has to replace halfback Joe Switzer, one of the finer players in recent Big Seven history.

Kansas, like Iowa State, has a new head coach. Chuck Mather, who had a sensational record at Massillon, high school, figures to improve the Jayhawk's 2-8 season record of last year although he's calling it a rebuilding season. Thirteen 1953 lettermen are back.

Coach Dal Ward expects 65 men at Colorado, only 10 of them lettermen. The problem is that of building a line to work with a talented backfield corps.

At Iowa State, new coach Vince Di Francesca had 119 candidates for spring practice. He has invited 48 of them to report Wednesday.

Coach Bill Glassford's Nebraska Cornhuskers, who had a 2-4 Big Seven record last season, will number about 55. Biggest problem is that of replacing John Bordogna, a nifty quarterback.

Ski Jump In Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (AP) — The largest artificial ski slide ever built will zoom jumpers into mammoth Soldier Field at a summer meet of the Norge Ski Club Sept. 17-18-19.

A 184-foot tower will protrude a 200-foot "underhill" over one of the stadium's colonnades and the jump will be coated with 200 tons of ground ice.

Roy Sherwood, national champion; Ansten Samuelstuen, Norwegian exchange student, who holds the American distance record; John Riisnaes of Norway; and Canadian champion Jacques Charland, are among the leading jumpers entered.

100-Mile Late Model Stock Car Classic Is Feature at Fair Today

A power-packed field faces the starter's flag Sunday afternoon in the 100-mile late model stock car race scheduled at the Missouri State Fair. Time trials will begin at 1 p.m., with the long distance grind at 2:30 p.m.

Heading the dynamite-packed group is Ernie Derr, 1953 IMCA champion. Derr, who is again leading the point standings in the national race, will wheel a 1954 Oldsmobile.

Don White, Fort Madison, Ia., last year's runner-up and again in second place in national rankings, will also break into action Sunday. White, winner of eight of the long distance events this year, will also wheel a 1954 Olds.

Returning to IMCA wars, after a year's suspension, will be Dom "Shorty" Perlick, Minneapolis, Minn. Perlick won the 1952 IMCA title, but was suspended early in 1953 for racing in an unsanctioned event.

The little Minnesotan won the long grind at the State Fair in 1952. He is a colorful chauffeur and will drive a 1954 Olds.

Late entries received by Fair Secretary Ross Ewing came from Newton Bartholemew, Des Moines, Ia., 1951 Plymouth; Gene Harmon, 1951 Hudson, Lincoln, Neb.; Bob Kozy, Minneapolis, Minn., 1950 Olds; Mell Krueger, Anita, Ia., 1953 Hudson and Sonny Gross, Quincy, Ill., 1954 Hudson.

Further Development On Waterfowl Project

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 28—(AP)—Further development of the Marais Des Cygnes waterfowl project was promised today by the State Fish and Game Commission following the allocation to Kansas of $295,164 in federal funds.

The commission also said part of the allocation will be used for new fishing waters, but did not divulge the type of projects. However, some additional state lakes have been under consideration.

The money, $39,945 under what the state received last year, is from federal excise taxes on firearms, ammunition and fishing equipment.

To qualify for the allocation the state must have cash reserves to match 25 per cent of project costs.

"The Kansas Fish and Game Commission, being in sound financial condition, will be able to make full use of the funds allocated," the commission said in a statement. It added:

"They money will be used in further development of the Marais Des Cygnes waterfowl project in eastern Kansas and in creating additional new fishing waters."

Big Trapshoot Match Comes To Close Sat.

VANDALIA, Ohio, Aug. 28 (AP)—This Miami Valley village pulled the cotton from its ears today and settled down to quiet normalcy as the Grand American trapshoot ended the biggest shotgun barrage in its 55-year history.

More than 2,000 shooters from all parts of the United States and Canada fired 1,166,900 12-gauge shells in competition here the last eight days.

The total targets thrown, including practice rounds and shoot-offs, approached one and one-half million.

In today's windup events, Maynard B. Henry, 39-year-old Los Angeles attorney and the new president of the Amateur Trapshooting Assn., broke 99 of 100 to win the National doubles champion ship. Franklin Westover of Centerville, Ind., broke 98 for 20 yards to triumph in the Vandalia Open handicap.

BOWLING

The Sedalia Merchants will open the 1954-55 league bowling season Monday night at 7 o'clock at the Sedalia Bowling Lane, with all teams intact from last season. Miller High Life will defend its title against the Stewart Ave. Market, Griesedieck Bros. Beer, Dairy Queen, St. Paul Lutheran Church and Twin Acres Inn teams. A vastly improved Twin Acres team appears to be a real threat to the Miller Beer team's supremacy.

At 9 o'clock Monday the strong Classic League swings into action headed by the defending champion John's Auto Supply, Inc. Alsa back from last year Anderson and Watkins teams. A slightly changed Dugan's team will appear this year under the ADCO banner and as yet two teams are without sponsors.

On Tuesday at 8:45 the Ladies Merchants start their 35 week session followed by the Ladies Streamliner League at 6:30 Wednesday. The Business Women's Leageu will start play at 6:30 p. m. on September 7.

Any teams needing an extra bowler should contact the alleys as several called in and expressed a desire to bowl. A team is still needed to complete the All-Star League at 8:45 Friday—contact Jack Vaughn.

Reynolds Protects Yanks Win Over Tigers, 4-2

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—The New York Yankees called upon Allie Reynolds in relief to protect a slim one-run advantage in the seventh inning today and then added another run to their lead while the veteran right hander held the Detroit Tigers in check for a 4-2 victory.

It was the fifth straight win for the second place Yanks as they kept the pressure on front-running Cleveland.

Kansas Citians Win Casting Tournament Held at State Fair

The 1954 junior casting title at the State Fair was won by Balthazar Darnay, Kansas City, Friday afternoon, and the next three positions in the tournament went to Kansas Citians also.

Jim Rauch placed second after battling for a tie in the regular round with Darnay. Both had 92 out of a possible 100 after the round was completed and a play-off was necessary.

Darnay hit for 93 out of 100 to Beat Rauch who scored but 86 hits.

Third place was won by Mike McMahon, who had a score of 87 out of 100 in the regular round.

Darnay was presented the KDRO and State Fair plaque.

Palmer Wins US Amateur Golf Tourney

DETROIT, Aug. 28 (AP)—Youth, grit and a late-warming putter carried Arnold Palmer of Cleveland to the 54th National Amateur golf championship today with a 1 up comeback victory over tiring Robert Sweeny.

Behind most of the day after watching the stylish Sweeny ring in three successive putts of 20 to 38 feet on the opening holes, Palmer, holding on doggedly, went ahead for the first time on the 32nd hole and clinched the match on the final green where Sweeny conceded to a routine par.

Sweeny, tall and handsome international socialite of 43, Oxford-educated, and winner of the British Amateur 17 years ago, saw his impeccable game deteriorate in the afternoon apparently as the result of sheer exhaustion.

The wealthy investment banker, who registers from Port Washington, N. Y., but with addresses in London, Paris, Palm Beach and wherever the international set gathers; had played himself dow to a thin point in this exhausting week-long tournament and was 1 pounds underweight.

The finals were staged in muggy temperatures and under threatening skies at the swank country club of Detroit before a disappointing crowd of about 3,000.

Palmer, 24, son of a Latrobe, Pa., professional and now a Cleveland salesman, won the 32nd with a four after Sweeny missed the green and then sank a vital 10-footer on the 33rd to go two holes ahead.

For the young Pennsylvanian this was a badly-needed clutch putt, one of the three good ones he sank all day. It put him two holes ahead going down to the final three holes making up Heartbreak Hill.

Sweeny, possessed with a swing that's the envy of the pros and a putting stroke that is like money in the bank, fired an even par 70 on the morning round to take a two-hole lead. Palmer, pressing and wild, had a 72.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 28 (AP)—Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati's powerhouse, doubled in the tying run and rode home on two long flies, giving the Redlegs a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates today. Rookie righthander Corky Valentine pitched all the way for his 11th triumph.

Rain Slows Auto Races At Marshall

Rain slowed and finally halted a battle for first place in tonight's modified stock car races between Judd Larson and Torch Aleshire, who had gone through the same thing in the State Fair races last Saturday. This time, however, the positions were reversed, as Aleshire had the lead when the race was halted in the 16th lap of the scheduled 25-lap feature.

K. C. Woods, driving a new car, finished third, and Tubby Mast was fourth. Roy Hibbard and Chuck Bayless finished out the paying spots.

Larson won the dash easily when Aleshire spun out in the second lap, Bayless and Hibbard collecting second and third spot honors.

Heat races went to Woody Carpenter, over Chet Dooley and Harold Cromley, Aleshire, over Gene Johnson and Woods, and Larson over Mast and Niemeyer.

It was announced that the consolation race, which was rained out, will be run as an extra event in next week's program. Claiming cars, scheduled to make their initial appearance tonight, were also washed out, and will appear next Thursday night. A total of nine events is now on the schedule for next week's program.

Summary:

Best Time—Aleshire—:21.1.

Trophy Dash, 5 laps—Larson, Bayless, Hibbard—1:49.5.

First Heat, 10 laps—Carpenter, Dooley, Cromley—3:39.2.

Second Heat, 10 laps—Aleshire, Johnson, Woods—3:30.4.

Braves Halt Giants In Eighth, Win 5-2

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 28 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves rammed over four runs after two men were out in the eighth inning today for a 5-2 triumph over the league-leading New York Giants.

The loss cut the Giants' margin over second-place Brooklyn 7-3 winner over St. Louis today, to 2½ games and left the Braves in the three hole, 6½ games off the pace.

Veteran left hander Warren Spahn and righthander Ruben Gomez were locked in a tight pitching duel with the score tied 1-1 when the Braves exploded. Spahn's single down the right-field line with the bases loaded drove in the final two runs, giving the southpaw ace his eighth successive personal triumph and a 16-10 slate for the year.

Floriculture Show at the Fair Ranks As One Of Best Ever

The 1954 Missouri State Fair Floriculture Exhibit again promises to be one of the most popular attractions on the grounds during the entire week. Backed by seventeen floral firms from all parts of Missouri under the direction of George Curnutt, Sedalia Chairman of the Floral Show Committee for the Missouri State Florists Association, results of cooperative spirit and effort have made a show that brings crowds form all parts of the State.

James E. Smith, Professor of Floriculture, University of Missouri, Superintendent of the State Fair Show for many years is high in his praise for the fine cooperation and efforts on the part of the Federated Garden Clubs of Missouri and show that is visited by thousands of flower lovers each day of the exposition. The flowers are refreshed daily and new arrangements added.

"Living Better with Flowers" is the theme of the 1954 show. Pony Express, Ozark Homestead, Mark Twain and Southern Missouri Hospitality are staged in different sections of the Floriculture Building.

Individuals assisting in these stagings are Mr. and Mrs. Jon Malang, Miss Gladys Shaw, Wayne Hendricks, Art Livingstone of Kansas City, Missouri, Marion Johnson of Independence and Mr. Adams of Raytown all of whom helped create "Pony Express".

Those who assisted with "Ozark Homestead", were Gus Wideman, Springfield; Dr. and Mrs. L. T. Melton and Mrs. Alice Day, Marshfield; Bill Scofield, Columbia; and Hunter McIntire, Fulton. Mark Twain scenes were designed by Miss Carma Tedford, Moberly; Miss Carolyn Williams and John Griffin, Hannibal.

Twenty-eight novelty arrangements designed and staged by Archias, George Curnutt and State Fair Floral companies greet visitors at the entrance.

Resurrected antiques from an 1850 model bath tub to washing machines are used as containers for unusual flower and party decorations to be found in the exhibit.

Orders Engineers To Push Experiments On Jet-Powered Car

LONDON (AP)—Britain's biggest automobile maker has ordered engineers to step up experiments in an effort to get production started on an economical jet-propelled car.

British Motor Corp. says it was encouraged by tests just completed with an Austin Sheerline sedan powered by a 125 horsepower gas turbine engine. For the 108 miles between Birmingham and London this car, instead of the customary $2.80 worth of gasoline, used kerosene costing $1.54.

It had a heat exchanger, making use of exhaust gases. An announcement said:

"With the possible exception of the Chrysler engine in America, about which little has been published, this is believed to be the first successful application of a heat exchanger to a gas turbine in a motor vehicle."

Sedalia Cousins Mark Silver Jubilee of Profession of Vows

Sister Charles Marie, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Foster, and Sister Mary Antonita, daughter of Mrs. Julia Hain, Little Rock, Ark., formerly of Sedalia, and the late Anton Hain, celebrated their silver jubilee of profession of vows in St. Schlastica Convent at Fort Smith., on Aug. 7, with a high mass of thanksgiving.

As Nora Foster and Agnes Hain they grew up in Sedalia where they were members of St. Patrick's Parish and pupils of St. Patrick's school from which they were graduated. Both were members of the choir and Nora was appointed organist when she was in the fourth grade and served faithfully until she left for the convent.

The two girls attended Smith-Cotton High School, graduating with the class of 1927, and while in high school took an active part in the projects of their class.

In December, 1927, the two girls, who are cousins, joined the Benedictine Sisters, St. Scholastica Convent, Fort Smith. After the usual time of probation, Nora and Agnes, as Sister Charles Marie and Sister Mary Antonita, made profession of vows on June 24, 1928. They taught in the parochial school of the diocese of Kansas City and Little Rock. The last ten years both have been assigned as administrators of hospitals conducted by the Benedictine Sisters of St. Scholastica Convent.

Sister Charles Marie is a sister of Tom Foster, 613 East 13th.

Both Sisters are neices of Tim Saunders, 408 East 11th, and Mrs. A. W. Turner, 633 East 13th.

Personnel Board Approves Pay Scale Increases

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Pay scale increases averaging 10.2 per cent have been approved for 7,800 state merit system employes starting next July 1—if the Legislature provides the money.

The State Personnel Advisory Board has boosted the rates by an estimated $155,366 a month, or around $1,864,392 a year.

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly concurred in the increases yesterday. He said they were fair and reasonable and the state could afford to pay them. And he added he would use the new, higher rates in presenting his budget for the next two years to the 1955 Legislature.

At the same time he urged heads of departments not under the merit system to survey their salary schedules at once and bring them into line so any increases in their agencies also can be reflected in the budget.

The governor's budget is the outline the Legislature uses when it starts to work on appropriations for the two years starting next July 1. Sometimes it takes the governor's recommendations, sometimes it changes them either up or down. The final figures will not be known until the session ends.

Mer't system studies have shown Missouri's state salaries far below other states. The new rates make sizeable increases all down the line, especially on the lower paid jobs like clerks, guards, hospital attendants, case workers and so on.

Cary Grant Decides Money's Not Everything

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—This may be a surprise to you, but Cary Grant declares money isn't everything.

Grant is being directed by Alfred Hitchcock in "To Catch a Thief," and he explains why he has been off the screen:

"This is my first picture in more than a year and a half. During that time I was given many scripts to read by many directors. I don't claim that I have the greatest judgment in the world but I know, or think I know, what is best for me. Hitchcock did right by me in 'Notorious' and 'Suspicion,' and I felt he would do right by me in 'To Catch a Thief.'

"I like to be busy. I'll make pictures for nothing if the story and, especially, the director are right. When being directed by a man like Hitchcock I feel as safe as a baby in his crib.

"There comes a time in an actor's life when money isn't everything. No amount of money could interest me in working on a poor script with a mediocre director. But if the script and director are good money is of no consideration to me."

To Pay SAFB Airmen Twice Each Month

Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbott has announced that military personnel of the Air Force will be paid twice a month on a six months test basis beginning in October, 1954.

Air Force officials anticipate that paying twice a month will tend to reduce the necessity for many airmen to seek small personal loans to meet expenses between monthly pay days. Business men near Air Force bases may find that their sales will become more stabilized. Commissaries, Base Exchanges, and laundry facilities are expected to have peak-load periods levelled off.

The plan will bring Air Force in line with the twice month pay policy used in industry and in civil service. So-called "partial" pays are expected to become virtually extinct with the advent of two pay days a month.

Pay earning periods under the once a month plan will be from the 1st through the last day of the month with pay day on the 5th of the following month. Pay earnings periods under the twice a month plan will be from the 1st to 15th and from the 16th through the last day with pay day on the 5th and 20th. First pay day for those electing semi-monthly pay will be October 20, 1954. First pay day for those electing monthly pay will be November 5, 1954. Pay days can be advanced if they should fall on a Sunday, holiday or non-work day.

Prior to adopting the semi-monthly pay plan, a field survey showed 73 percent of the airmen in favor of two pay days a month, 16 percent opposed and 11 percent indifferent. After the plan has been placed in effect, an Air Force wide personnel sample survey will be taken to test the reaction of Air Force personnel.

Fan Has Cagney's Autograph in Blood

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) —James Cagney thought he had seen all kinds of movie fans, but he has found a new one

When he was on location for "Run For Cover," he was approached by an angelic-appearing young Boy Scout. To Cagney's surprise the lad spoke in a pseudo-tough tone.

"Hiya, Cagney," growled the boy.

"Hiya, kid," said the actor, going along with the gag.

"I want your autograph."

"Yeah?"

"Yeah. In blood."

And the boy brought out a tube full of a red liquid. The actor signed his name. The boy muttered "Thanks, Cagney," and sauntered off.

I.O.O.F. Neapolis Lodge No. 153 will have special meeting Aug. 31, 8:00 p.m. All members urged to attend. Watermelon will be served.

BLP Day Set For Sept. 9 At Boonville

BOONVILLE—Sept. 9 is BLP-day for mid-Missouri livestock farmers and their families. It is one of the first "Livestock Jamborees" of its kind. Boonville will be livestock capital for 24 hours, as specialists from Missouri College of Agriculture, editors of Missouri Ruralist, county agents, entertainers and farm families gather for one big "livestock field day" combining both fun and useful information.

Special Boonville committees have been at work for months planning a day jam-packed with enjoyable and helpful demonstrations, exhibits and shows. The entire field of animal farming will be covered—beef, dairy cattle, sheep, swine and poultry. Ways to increase income on the farm, new grading methods, housing for animals, use of pasture and ensilage, methods of feeding, size of herd or flock for most profitable operation—these are just a few of the facets of livestock production to be covered.

Specialists from the Agricultural Extension Service will be in charge of the exhibits, assisted by county agents.

Ike Signs Bill To Raise Lid On National Debt

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed legislation authorizing a temporary 6 billion dollar increase in the present 275 billion dollar national debt ceiling, and declared the hike "may prove inadequate."

In approving the increase legislation at the summer White House, the President noted in a statement that it permits a temporary increase of up to 6 billion dollars in the national debt outstanding before the close of the fiscal year which started July 1.

The administration had asked Congress for a 10 billion dollar increase.

Referring to the smaller hike authorized, Eisenhower said:

"Although this provision may prove inadequate, it does allow some indispensable latitude in conducting the operations of the federal government during the current year and is an improvement over the existing situation.

"The administration will make every possible effort to carry on the activities of the government in accordance with this limit."

The President said his administration's record "fully demonstrates its dedication to thorough going economy and efficiency."

Farm Flocks Provide Top Mo. Wool Show

Seventy-five top fleece exhibits sheared mostly from farm flocks during the 1954 season, made an improved State Fair wool show.

Grand Champion fleece honors went to Gene F. Wood, LaClede, Missouri breeder of purebred Corriedales. The reserve grand honor went to Thomas O. Pemberton, Centralia, Mo., also a breeder and exhibitor of Registered Corriedale Sheep.

These were no "doggy fleeces in the 1954 Sedalia show" were the words of E. Glenn Thackery, Independence, Mo., Superintendent of this annual show for several years a field service man for Midwest Wool Marketing Cooperative.

This organization, The Missouri State Fair, The Missouri Bureau Federation, and the Producers Marketing Associations combined to furnish an educational exhibit for 1954 fair visitors housed under a large tent near the Administration building that plainly shows four common grades of Missouri wool; prime, choice, good, and medium grades of feeder steers; choice 1, choice 2, choice 3, and medium grades of butcher hogs; prime, choice, good, and utility slaughter lambs, and other common grades of animals to be found around terminal livestock markets.

Live animals, well marked, furnished school lessons that farmer producers and buying consumers should study carefully and learn well.

The Wool show was judged by J. R. Ellis, Kansas City, Mo.

Vacation Ends

The summer slipped away too soon,
'Tis 'most September, seems like June,
I knew vacation couldn't last
But, Oh, it just went by so fast,
I planned a million things to do
And I'm not even one tenth through,
It seemed when school was out last spring
That I could just do everything
I would go fishin', ride my bike,
Go swimming some and take a hike,
I'd build some little cars and planes,
I'd go down and I'd watch the trains,
I'd show my girl some things I drew,
I'd visit on the farm some, too,
I'd sit and look up at the sky
And watch the clouds go drifting by,
I'd build a house up in a tree
From there how far off I could see,
I'd go to all the picture shows,
Read comic books but goodness knows,
How fast the time, it seems, passed by
First thing I knew it was July
And then the next thing was the Fair,
I hadn't done much, been no where,
And now its time for school and I
Just can't help it wonder why
The days at school don't go so fast,
But summer days come and are passed
Before I even hardly know
I wonder why it is they go
So quick that I just can't get done
The things that really are such fun,
Guess we gotta have education
But, boy, I love that ol' vacation.

Back to School ----In Sedalia

Doors Open September 7th

Mark and Marvin Mettler talk with Sister Theona, principal at Sacred Heart High School, about the coming school year.

Sedalia's public schools will open Sept. 7, and more pupils than ever will troop into the classrooms to resume their studies. To provide for them, three new classrooms have been added to Horace Mann School, and additions are contemplated at Washington and Mark Twain in the future.

All teaching vacancies have been filled despite the great competition which now exists in that field, supplies have been ordered, buildings repaired, grounds trimmed and schedules arranged for the year's work.

Vacation time has been brought to a fitting close by the biggest State Fair in Missouri's history, and mothers will now be relieved of the task of keeping the family occupied and out of trouble, especially in a season of such extreme heat.

Most of the high school students will be trading a job for books. Far from being idle this year, they could usually be found working all over the city, earning money for school styles and activities.

Weather prophets to the contrary, the opening of the school doors a week from Tuesday will signal the end of another summer.

Coach Ralph Dow, of the SCHS Tigers, talked over football prospects with Bobby Case, returning all-conference star. (Walch photos.)

Fall Colors Are Deep-hued And Contrasty

Turn the color wheel of fashion this fall and you'll find a deep-hued richness to the new season's look!

Girls' fashions turn away from the pale tints and shades of the past few seasons with a gay return to traditional dark colors. There is a new note of gaiety to these into-winter tones, as dark reds, dark greens, dark browns and navy come to the fore again.

Charcoal shades in grey and black sparkle against crisp white touches. Brown — from the spice shades in coats — to the chocolate and cocoa hues, in sportswear — leads again in young miss fashions.

Orange glows as the brightest accent color of fall. It adds gay emphasis to grey, to brown to navy, and to the off blacks.

Inspiration is taken from the Indian influence in fashion with aqua, turquoise and teal blue pre-eminent in new felts and corduroys.

Football colors — those taken from college banners — in high shades of red, blue and green, lead also in fashion's kick-off for fall, with burnt orange and gold popular runner-up!

Fashion cheers the high-fashion colors of fall — this time in plaids which by clever use of color shadings, over-stripes and prints — take on a three-dimensional look in all the glowing fall hues.

Surely the young miss, whether she's six or sixteen, will look bright and gay as she wends her way into another school year!

Estimated light and power costs for Sedalia's schools next year total $10,000.

TRIPLETS ENTER COLLEGE—Sara, Carrolee and Nancy Harned, triplet daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Harned, 1324 South Carr, will enroll at Christian College, Columbia, this fall, all of them taking arts and science subjects. They were graduated from Smith-Cotton High School this spring.

School's Part of Way of Living

See That Children Enjoy School Days, Not School 'Daze'

A peek at the future is just the thing to prepare preschoolers for the moment they start their long trek to graduation. Walking the route from home to school with their friends is good experience, and heightens anticipation of the big day.

By Kay Sherwood
NEA Staff Writer

Soon the school bell will ring for the first time for thousands of apple-cheeked five and six-year-olds, including our daughter. That is why I'm slightly fluttery these days. How will Mary get along with 35 other children? Will the teacher appreciate her naturally shy temperament? What can we do to help launch her school career in a happy, self-confident manner?

If you're at sea with the same questions, weigh the wise advice of Mrs. Emma Sheehy, of Columbia University's teachers college. I have profited from reading her book, "The Fives and Sixes Go to School" and from talking to her, too. Mrs. Sheehy's wisdom stems from years of teaching experience and working with student teachers.

Preparation for school, says Mrs. Sheehy, is not a cut-and-dried exercise to start a few days before school opens. It's a part of a family's whole way of living. We must establish good feelings about school naturally and wholeheartedly.

Specific suggestions made by Mrs. Sheehy serve me as a sort of checklist. Stress a realistic approach, she says. Don't conjure up an awesome image of what the teacher WON'T let the child do.

Even remarks made in fun are apt to be taken seriously. On the other hand, don't paint an all-perfect picture, either. In discussing what the children do at school, tell him some of the activities he may not enjoy but accent those he will.

If you are as hazy as I was about the changes in school activities since our bead-stringing days, you can find out the general curriculum from the principal, the teacher, or a PTA member.

Incidentally, Mrs. Sheehy's book which was written for teachers, gives detailed descriptions of activities that are a gold mine of playtime suggestions for parents.

Recounting your early pleasant experiences in school, telling stories, playing simple games (Hide the Thimble or Button-Button) are also happy preparation for the school life.

To prepare your child for the larger groups of children he'll meet in school widen his circle of acquaintances, suggests Mrs. Sheehy.

We exploit opportunities for meeting a variety of youngsters by more frequent trips to the public playground, the park, and a play-exchange system with mothers who live in other neighborhoods.

How will your child go to school by bus or on foot? If by bus, take him over the route several times before school opens. If he walks, stroll the distance with him to make sure he knows the way, even though you'll be taking him at first.

On our walking-to-school jaunts Mary usually invites two or three of her future classmates to walk with us. At the school they press their noses against the low windows and spin yarns about all the wonders inside.

Its good sense to get acquainted with the teacher and to cooperate with her. If you haven't already done so, write down any physical or emotional quirks, habits and disposition traits that will help her understand your child better.

Make plans in advance so that you will be free to spend the first day at school with your child if it seems advisable. It's most important, says Mrs. Sheehy, that the early days at school be especially happy ones.

Does your child know his full name and address and telephone number? He ought to before he starts school.

Many Differences Set Proper Age of Young People For School

Just as physical differences are evident in children of the same age, there are also as many emotional and mental differences in these same youngsters.

Some children talk and walk earlier — others can be separated from their mothers earlier — and so on.

Thus every child is not ready for school at the same time. Not all youngsters can adapt themselves to the strangeness, the change and the adjustments that school represents.

It may be wise to send a four-year old to nursery school to better adjust and prepare him for the school years soon to come.

However, if he or she proves to be unhappy, do not force the issue, the child may not be ready for this major step.

CHESTER O'BANNON, a graduate of the Smith-Cotton High School class of 1954, will attend Kansas City University this fall, majoring in vocal music. He is on a scholarship. Chester was a member of the Smith-Cotton track team and holds the school record in the 220-yard dash. He was also selected as outstanding senior in vocal music. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. O'Bannon, 1323 East Broadway. (Lehmer photo)

ROK Bill to Restrict Foreign News Agencies Is Left On Shelf

SEOUL (AP)—A government-proposed bill to restrict foreign news agencies operating in South Korea has failed to reach the floor of the National Assembly.

The Assembly's Education Committee said it has decided not to even discuss the passage of the bill "in view of freedom of the press."

Co-ed With 20 Grandmothers Sparks Unique Program for Aged Shut-ins

THEY'RE ALL HER "GRANDMOTHER": Jane S. Hayes reads to an enthralled audience at the Champaign, Ill., County Home, as part of the "Foster Daughters" program at University of Illinois.

URBANA-CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — One grandmother often has many grandchildren, but there is a single University of Illinois co-ed who has 20 grandmothers.

Jane S. Hayes, Illinois senior from DuQuoin, adopted a score of unofficial grandmothers, residents of the Champaign County Home, where she has been making weekly visits for more than a year.

Before her graduation this year, Jane took her "young man" to be "approved" by them. Later she bade them a somewhat tearful good-bye, promising faithfully to write them about herself and the job she is going to in Evanston.

Jane, one of the most active and outstanding co-eds at Illinois, has been a prime mover in an unusual student undertaking known as "Foster Daughters" — a group of 60 girls who visit aged shut-ins of the community regularly through the college year.

These old people, many of whom have outlived most of their friends and whose surviving kinfolk may be far away, delight in the visits of the college girls, who not only bring new interests to them but also add zest to their normally uneventful days.

The "Foster Daughter" program was initiated by a small group of sorority members with the guidance of the Rev. Edward W. O'Rourke of the Newman Foundation. Father O'Rourke conceived the "Foster Daughters" as a rewarding and constructive activity for the young women as well as filling a need of the community.

Since attachments are quickly formed by the aged for their young visitors, only girls who demonstrated serious interest and could be depended upon to "stick with it" were encouraged to take part.

During the first year, members of six campus sororities have participated. Most of the visiting has been done at institutions and nursing homes, but regular visits have also been made to aged shut-ins living in private homes.

Many of the co-eds are majoring in physical therapy, art, music, and related fields. Jane Hayes is a sociology major. She read to her 20 "grandmothers" from books that they suggested themselves. Others taught various crafts and leisure-time activities.

"Foster Daughters" is a nonsectarian organization, although a few of the girls know Father O'Rouke as a chaplain of St. John's Roman Catholic Chapel.

It has remained up to the present a sorority project chiefly because the sorority groups are small enough to be well acquainted and to form an accurate opinion as to which girls can become the most effective "foster daughters."

After her graduation, Jane Hayes started using her training in sociology as a house parent in the Evanston Home for Emotionally Disturbed Children. Why was Jane so interested in a program for the aged when her training has been toward work with children? She says the answer lies in the challenge she recognized in something Father O'Rourke told her before she went into the "Foster Daughters."

"He said that it was easy to do things for little children who are loving and lovable, the kind of service that gives pleasure to the giver. Then he said that service to the aged might appear to be thankless, even unwelcome, and had to be given selflessly without thought of any return."

As evidence of the goodwill of local social agencies toward the activities of the "Foster' Daughters," both the local Council of Social Agencies and Illinois Public Aid Commission have suggested to the girls names of persons whom they might visit, persons in need of company and cheer as much as any other kind of assistance.

Buttons and Trim Spark College Wardrobe

This young co-ed has added new interest to her wardrobe for a triumphant return to the campus. Her handmade raincoat belt is sparked with bright fringe and gaily-colored buttons (left). The same round buttons trim her parasol. To give a 'matched set' look to Bermuda shorts (center), she trims a simple cardigan with clan plaid ribbon finished with ball buttons. A plain black pillbox hat leads a double life at meetings and campus plays when trimmed with glitter buttons and silky white fringe (upper right). Black gloves are trimmed to match. For prom-dates, our co-ed adds glamour to an inexpensive clutch bag by decorating it with round gold ball buttons sewn along the edge. This girl knows the key to wardrobe success lies in having smart, adaptable accessories.

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The college girl who's preparing her wardrobe for school knows how important it is to own clever accessories. But, very often, these wardrobe-stretchers are as expensive as they are interesting.

With the purchase of a few basic items, an assortment of buttons, your sewing kit, plus a little imagination, you can create high style for a few pennies.

For instance, the all-important sweater collection looks brand new when you add a ribbon trim. After you've tacked it to the neckline and sleeves of a simple cardigan, add round ball buttons in colors that match the ribbon. If you own a pair of clan plaid Bermuda shorts, trim at least one sweater with clan plaid ribbon. When worn with shorts, or your favorite skirts, your beribboned and buttoned sweaters will rival the most expensive in class.

On rainy campus days, a little button-and-trim cheer will brighten up your day as well as your rainwear. A parasol decorated around the edge with various sized buttons to match or harmonize with its color is a pretty accent to a suit or raincoat.

Your raincoat can take on a new look, too. A plain belt trimmed with matching buttons and bright fringe will definitely lift the spirits of its wearer. And it can serve as a conversation-maker when worn with a sheath dress.

That little velvet pillbox you wore at last year's faculty tea needn't be tossed aside this fall after serving you so loyally. A ring of glitter buttons sewn around the top of the hat gives it a dressy, fresh look.

For theater dates in town, the same little pillbox can look different. Just add white silky fringe to the glitter buttons. This can be done in no time at all, for the fringe is attached to the butons in a mater of seconds.

When prom-time rolls around, you'll need a smart evening bag for make-up repairs during an evening of dancing and fun. Here's where buttons and your needle come to the rescue once more. An inexpensive clutch bag acquires a really luxurious look when decorated with gold ball buttons.

Ask the best-dressed girl on the campus for the key to her wardrobe success. She'll tell you it's the accessories she's made herself that rounded out a well-planned wardrobe at a tiny cost.

CRISP PLAID, perfect for teen ages, is a charmer with Puritan collar that has long ribbon streamers, and room-for-everything side pockets.

NANCY ANN VAUGHAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan, 1615 West Fourth, who was graduated from the Smith-Cotton High School in the class of 1954, will enter the University of Missouri at Columbia where she will major in journalism. She was granted a curator's award in the division of arts and science

RUTH ANN SIRON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Siron, Hughesville, will enter Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg on a scholarship received from the board of regents there. She plans to major in business education. She was graduated from La Monte High School this spring.

"School's open — Drive Carefully", is the note of caution sounded by Matt F. Morse, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, to all motorists, as the Auto Club opens the 22nd Annual September School Opening Campaign.

"During the summer", Mr. Morse said, "many children are away at camp or playing in yards or playgrounds and not crossing the streets. The motorist easily forgets the extra precaution he must take during school months."

Emphasizing the need for this safety campaign, Mr. Morse added, "It is impossible to tie a string around the finger of every motorist when school opens. But the Auto Club's September School Opening Campaign of hanging the above illustrated posters around schools and busy intersections accomplishes the very same thing. It alerts motorists.

"The increasing public interest and recognition of the School Opening Safety Campaign is being demonstrated by the active cooperation of city officials, police, school officials, AAA official garagemen and many others. This campaign gives the whole community a flying start with which to begin a safe school year — a time for universal safety consciousness."

This safety campaign was first established in 1933, when it was noticed that September was consistently the most dangerous for school children. The situation called for a dramatic way of warning all drivers that school was open. The answer was the posters on prominent posts where they would be seen by the motorists. These posters, put up on the weekend before school starts, are already on the job when the children start to school.

The campaign, which was originated by the Automobile Club of Missouri in St. Louis, has now become a nation-wide September School Opening Campaign. Motorists today will see the same warning poster from one end of the country to the other.

Toys Can Play An Important Part In Child's Development

Toys can be as much a part of a child's development, as they are fun for the child to enjoy. And no matter how old or young the child may be, there are many varieties of toys that fill the bill in fun and educational qualifications.

Here are some general guides on toy selection: Avoid toys small enough to be swallowed for the child who is still putting objects into his mouth . . . toys for this age group should be washable, non-toxic and safe.

Children who are just beginning to do things with their hands should not be given sharp-edged scissors or tools, or electrical toys that have a shock hazard.

Another factor to be fully considered is — durability. Toys should be sturdy enough to last long enough to fulfill their need and interest.

Toys for the child of two-to-six year development — this is the age he finds endless pleasures in colors, of discovery for the youngster . . . shapes and textures. From rattles to stuffed toy animals . . . colored beads, balls and blocks . . . pull, push and tug-at toys . . . "noisemaker" toys are toys that hold fascination for the play-pen set!

As the child goes into the kindergarten age — mental skills and awakening emotions demand development. Picture books, big drawing crayons, modeling clays are some of the toys to which youngsters begin to respond.

Now too, is the time of imitation — and small boys and girls want to play "mama and papa" — "doctors and nurses" . . . "policeman and fireman" in dress-up costumes.

This is the time also when muscular coordination has ripened to make scooters, wagons and velocipedes enjoyable.

For the six-to-eight year development — these children are beginning to learn the meanings of group activities — toys that make it possible to share in or compete in group activities now come to the fore.

Simple games like dominoes, picture playing cards, and even checkers, teach group participation; while skates and bicycles develop both competitive and muscular skills.

From this age on, group consciousness develops into team play. Boys organize football, baseball and basketball teams. Girls get together for sewing, hobby crafts and of course, have a greater interest in play with dolls.

From the age of ten on, the child's interest in toys takes on more individualized patterns. Hobby interests increase — boys begin to tackle more difficult construction sets, scientific apparatus and even skilled carpentry.

Girls, as a rule, are interested in practical sewing and homemaking activities.

It is therefore important to always be cognizant of the child's development rather than his age . . . to give him a variety of toys rather than just one expensive toy

Parents Should Ask Sons About School Styles Before Buying

Parents planning to buy back-to-school clothes for their sons should first consult them before buying! There is a definite school outfit now worn in most parts of the country that consists of a hip-length outer jacket worn with slacks and open - throated shirt.

Attempts to get boys to wear other clothes for day-to-day school wear are probably doomed by the fact that "all the other boys" are wearing a short coat, etc.

It's important, however, to see that this outfit is warm as well as wind resistant.

It will cost $3,500 to supply Sedalia's schools with water this year.

Foreign Languages Difficult

By SANDRA NEMSER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Why do American students have such a hard time learning a foreign language? This question plagues many a mother who sees her offspring go through four years of high school, or college French, still unable to carry on a simple conversation in the language.

"They are not really poor linguists," says Germaine Bree, newly appointed chairman of the French Department, New York University. "What they lack is a chance to practice the language."

Miss Bree, who has taught French since 1936, also says Americans learn their languages when they are too old and too self-conscious about foreign accents and grammar.

She says a language should be started when a child is in grade school, because the youngster has an ease of imitation lost in an older person, is not self-conscious, and can be trained more easily to pronounce words a certain way, because:

Learning a language can be a game to children."

Prof. Bree (pronounced Bray) gives some academic and practical reasons for learning another language.

"It's a liberalizing process for the mind and makes a person more conscious of the language he uses daily. If you want a government grant, you need a second language. The same is true of strategic government positions and jobs in certain fields such as chemistry. It helps you understand and be comfortable with the culture of your own and other countries."

The best way to study a language, she says, is to speak and hear it continuously. She also claims:

"If you learn a language by mechanical means without learning the culture all you have is superficial chatter."

Prof. Bree points out that a foreign language program was started four or five years ago to foster second languages in elementary schools. This would compare with the program in many European schools where youngsters learn a second language as part of their curriculum.

Miss Bree says the American diphthong and the various sectional accents get in the way of pure French pronounciation. But she adds:

"You know, a southern drawling."

Marine Recruiter Observes His First Year In Sedalia

T/Sgt Charles E. Erickson, the Marine Corps recruiting sergeant for the Sedalia area, celebrates his first year in Sedalia this month.

He opened his recruiting office in the post office building on Aug. 10.

In a year's time, he and S/Sgt. William Sanford, who was recently transferred to Kansas City, enlisted a total of 108 men from this area. Of this number, more than half were from Pettis County. By counties, the number of men enlisted were: Pettis, 57; Lafayette 12; Saline, eight; Johnson, seven; Henry, three; Benton, three; and 12 from counties outside this area. This included enlistments for two, three and four years.

"Without the help of the local businessmen and publications, the recruiting program could not have been as successful as it was," Sgt. Erickson said.

To supply its clerical needs, the Sedalia public school system recently purchased four pounds of rubber bands for the coming year.

Betty Rothenberger — Patsy Bradley — Marian Bradley

THE BRADLEY SISTERS—Betty, Patsy and Marian are leaving home again to further their education. They have lived in Sedalia all of their life except for two years while attending college.

The three girls will leave Sedalia Monday, Aug. 30, and drive to Nashville, Tenn., to see their brother and sister-in-law.

Marian and Patsy have an apartment in Nashville and will reside there this fall. Marian will be a sophomore at Belmont Baptist College in Nashville. Patsy hopes to work in the Southern Baptist Sunday School Building where their brother is now assistant of the statistic and survey department. She is a commerce graduate of Southwest Baptist College, Bolivar.

Betty (Bradley) Rothenberger, who has been employed in this county as a music teacher for a year and a half, will now finish her college degree at Baylor University, Waco, Tex. She witnessed two automobile accidents within five months which proved fatal to her aunt, Mrs. Jessie Coulter, and husband, Marvin Rothenberger, having been married only 20 days, which have made many changes in her future plans. She will continue her education this fall with public school music as her major and religious education as minor.

Campus Fashions Take It Easy

SWEATERS RATE HIGH ... This group of students at Columbia University, New York, demonstrates the popularity of husky sweaters and wool knits for campus wear. The boys, Bob Allison, Harry Schneider, Ted Winterburn and Don McDonough wear their favorite versions of the sweater mode. Jan Weeks wears a mocha brown two-piece dress with new wide collar.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

The easy look is the required ingredient for this year's campus clothes for both men and women.

This means clothes must be easy to get into, easy in fit and easy to look at. It does not mean that the unmourned sloppy fad of a few years ago is back. This year it's a more studied carelessness. Clothes are made with a casual effect in view. The bloused and middy silhouettes are top favorites with college girls. Such outfits as Bermuda shorts and bulky sweaters are in high demand by college men as well as coeds.

Wool knits also rate high, as do rugged tweeds and softly draped wool jerseys. These are clothes that require little pressing, adapt themselves to the specialized problems of college life and are made to take hard wear.

Girls like a wardrobe of skirts, shirts, sweaters and, of course, Bermuda shorts. Dark flannels and tweeds are the choice for skirts and shorts, with charcoal gray again in top position.

The same fabrics are in top demand by college men, with the charcoal grays and charcoal browns most popular, husky tweeds running a close second.

For posting bulletins and setting up examinations, the Sedalia school system has purchased 1,250 mimeograph stencils for the coming year.

Missionaries Will Speak Friday At Broadway Church

Dr. and Mrs. Homer Rice, medical missionaries stationed in Meshed, Iran, whose work is sponsored by the Broadway Presbyterian Church, will visit the church on Thursday and Friday.

Dr. Rice is the son of a Presbyterian minister, the Rev. Glenn Rice, Seward, Nebr. His wife, Charlotte, is a graduate nurse and a native of St. Louis. Dr. Rice was sent overseas with the U.S. Medical Service in 1946 Mrs. Rice accompanied him and it was a valuable preparatory experience for foreign mission service.

Following his discharge from the Army and a short time spent in private practice, this young couple felt the challenge of the mission field. In 1949 they were appointed for service in China, but because of the strained political situation there shortly before leaving the States, they were assigned to their work in Iran.

This is their first visit to the States since starting their missionary work. They arrived in New York the latter part of July and have been traveling over the country visiting many churches and telling of their work. Dr. Rice plans to spend the coming year in graduate work in the East. They are the parents of four small children.

The public is cordially invited to hear Dr. and Mrs. Rice on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Service Building of the Broadway Presbyterian Church.

The Sedalia public schools have purchased 1,550 reams of paper for next year's ditto and mimeographing work. There are 500 sheets to a ream.

High Court Justices Dissent On Ways to Spend Vacations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—The average American, when you mention a Supreme Court justice, conjures up a picture of a stern, stiff individual in a black robe, either sitting majestically behind a long bench or poring over thick legal volumes in a paneled office.

But justices are human too. They like to get away from the weighty cares of high office, take off their shoes and relax. Since great dignity goes with their jobs, however, it follows them into their private lives.

A justice, once he dons his robes, almost always drops any hail-fellow-well-met attitude which may have marked his earlier days as a lawyer or politician. With few exceptions his private life is, and stays, extremely private.

That's true even on vacation. He likes to get away, soak up sun, play golf, garden or travel as well as the next man. But he relaxes with dignity, usually alone or with only his immediate family.

After a long winter of decisions, there is no dissent on the court on the need for vacation, but there are nine separate opinions on how to spend it.

You might see Justice Tom Clark playing unabashedly with his grandchildren, or Justice Hugo Black in T-shirt, shorts and sneakers.

If you were in Hawaii, you might spot Justice Harold H. Burton enjoying himself like most tourists. If you were in Paris, French Morocco or Australia, you might see a rumpled American with a swift, heels-down walk. That would be Justice William O. Douglas, who is more often in the public eye when he's off the bench than any of his colleagues. He's on another of his global tours.

Around Maysville, Ky., Justice Stanley F. Reed can be found nearly every morning inspecting the tobacco crop on his 500-acre farm or out in a pasture looking over his herd of 50 purebred Holsteins.

But unlike most Americans on vacation, Justices invariably take along a few briefs to read and digest before court reconvenes in October. Chief Justice Earl Warren, 63, is one of those who is working his way through his vacation.

Back in his native California, where he has a beach place at Santa Monica and a favored retreat on the Russian River north of San Francisco, Warren described his vacation as "cathing up on a lot of reading of cases" and "getting reacquainted with my family." Not all the children moved to Washington when he quit the California governorship for his post of chief justice.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, 62, was another California vacationer, but Jackson made sure he wasn't disturbed. He retired into the recesses of the redwood forests at Bohemian Grove, where tradition forbids the presence of newspaper reporters or photographers.

Vacations have changed somewhat for 54-year-old Justice Clark. Mrs. Clark explained it this way:

"He used to do a lot of work and study at home. He still does, but now he seems to find more time to relax, particularly since the grandchildren came along."

Down in Dallas, Tex., the Clarks visited son Ramsey and grandchildren Ronda, 2, and Tom II, 5 months. He had planned a fishing trip one day but, said his wife, decided he couldn't make it—"spent the afternoon playing with the babies."

Clark himself, in a sports shirt, was on the lawn practicing golf shots. Smoothly he dropped half a dozen chip shots into the hands of a reporter 25 feet away, commenting at the same time: "I'm not very good with this iron."

"I guess," he said, "you would say fishing is my favorite sport, particularly after you've caught them and rolled them in corn meal and fried them to a golden brown."

Justice Burton, 66, off on a trip to three national parks, the Hawaiian Islands and Canada's Banff and Lake Louise, commented:

"We travel light. Everything is arranged in advance. Our idea is to get our travel in while we're young.

Gap Between Army Trains And Wants Too

FT. BENNING, Ga., Aug. 21 (AP)—There is apparently a wide gap between the way the Army says it would like to train and the way it actually does.

In Washington, Army spokesmen say the bitter experience of Korea proved once more that it takes tough, trained soldier to win battles and stay alive. They speak of rugged, hard-hitting "training for survival."

Yet despite this, the program here is pretty much as it was in 1946.

The Army admits that part of the answer lies in the fact that training programs are often tempered by visions of irate mothers writing congressmen to complain that junior is being subjected unnecessarily to danger.

If the Army is going to toughen up, this is where it will begin. Ft. Benning is the showplace of the infantry and the training ground for the Army's leaders. How well the men here learn their jobs as soldiers may affect their survival in combat but for the most part the new trend of thinking at the Pentagon—where there has been a cautious movement over the past six months towards what the Army hopes will be harder, more tightly disciplined units—has not shown up in positive directives in the lower echelons.

Nearly every combat veteran I talked with here—especially junior officers—asked for more realistic training. But they are not getting it.

Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Harper, commandant of the Infantry Training Center, said, "So far there has been no reflection of the Washington thinking here."

The field training is physically tough, but it isn't realistic.

The caliber of the instructors—and instruction—is high, but the apparent lack of enthusiasm among them is striking.

Battlefield survival is learned by practice, like locating the position of a machine gun from the lay of the land, a puff of smoke and the crack-thump method.

A machine gun bullet travels faster than sound. You will hear it "crack" overhead and then catch a second sound, that of the round being fired. With training you can learn the direction from which the gun is fired by listening for the second noise. It is easier to learn in training than when someone is shooting for keeps.

In Korea, many divisions set up training programs—sort of post-graduate courses — for replacements coming in from the States.

Field exercises in Korea were conducted with live ammunition, grenades, flamethrowers and mortars.

When a division went into reserve it almost invariably gave the men a short rest and then embarked on a dawn-to-dusk training schedule.

In the light of the rugged and realistic training I saw in Korea and in World War II, nothing here impressed me as effective training for battlefield survival. The instructors agree but plead that rigid safety regulations in the states prevent such training.

Here live grenades are not used in training. Men simply practice throwing hunks of iron—disarmed grenades—a few times. A man learns little of the bursting radius of a grenade or the necessity of keeping his head down.

I followed a 70-man company of student officers through a mock assault on a hill and watched this same company in a river crossing.

In the hill assault, four 105mm. howitzers and a series of machine guns were employed to provide overhead fire. It was a combined tank-infantry attack with the tanks firing blanks.

Except for the bursting of the high explosive shells, the same effects could have been achieved with a recording sound track.

For the troops it became pretty much a listless exercise in walking to the top of the hill.

A man can develop no sense of urgency, or even learn much, from watching a shell burst 400 yards away — the minimum safety range in the States. To anyone who has been in Korea or in World War II a 400-yard miss might as well be in the next county.

The men bunched. They had blanks, but some didn't bother to fire or they fired them all at once just to get rid of them.

In an assault, so the books say, the safest place is right on the heels of your own artillery. It permits you to reach the enemy before he dares stick his head up to shoot you.

In the entire 15-week, 640-hour course, 60 per cent of it in the field, this was the only time these men would work under live ammunition.

Upon conclusion of the hill assault, I talked to Maj. Woodrow Parker, a Bronze Star winner in World War II and currently an instructor.

"Sure it isn't realistic," said Parker. "You can't have realism without the danger of somebody getting hurt. The troops don't mind the danger. It sharpens them up, but let one of them get hurt and you spend three months writing reports and explanations that it was just an unavoidable accident."

One of the students was 1st Lt. James Clark of Cincinnati, Ohio. He was a company commander in Korea. If he had to go back to fighting, what kind of a company would he want?

"I'd want a company," he said, "that had had good basic training as infantry. There is a great contrast between training here and in Korea. We had a program in Korea that was good and realistic. This?" Clark shrugged.

One general outside the infantry school itself believes he has found an answer to the problem. Maj. Gen. Richard W. Stephens, boss of the 47th Infantry Division, went to war once with soft, scarcely trained troops and he won't again if he can help it.

Too many of his men were killed.

The normal training week for an infantry division in this country is 44 hours. With the 47th Division it is closer to 60 and about 90 per cent is spent in the field.

Most of the men are draftees. They complain bitterly, but judging by the men I talked to it was the griping of men who had pride in their outfit. They were quick to scorn what they believed to be the soft life of the infantry school post trooper.

In an interview with Stephens, whom I had last seen in Korea, I asked how he kept the mothers off his neck.

"You don't have to sell the American mothers," he said, "once they understand this sort of training is insurance for survival."

"You remember the mental attitude of soldiers when they first went into Korea? They were occupation troops. They had been told to join the Army, get an education, go to Japan and live a soft life.

"When I took over the 21st Regiment, 24th Division, it was falling apart. It was a lousy outfit. It took five months to get 'em up in the saddle and realize they were fighting for keeps. They were good soldiers—the ones who lived that long."

Stephens, a highly decorated veteran of the European campaigns, rose from colonel to major general in less than three years.

When he returned to the United States, he became commanding general of the 3rd Armored Division at Ft. Knox. That is where he developed his system.

"I got a lot of letters from mothers and families," he said. "I answered every one. I told the mothers I was going to make it just as tough and hard for their sons as I could and I told 'em why. I told 'em the safest soldier was the trained soldier.

"'I got back a lot of letters saying, 'Okay, give it to 'em.'"

Threat to Cut Famed Cable Car System Rouses Turmoil

By HAL BOYLE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Can you imagine the uproar in Paris if someone proposed razing the Eiffel Tower? Or the screams in Brooklyn if someone sold the Dodgers to Dallas?

Well, the same kind of turmoil has been going on here all year since they cut San Francisco's famous cable car system in half.

"If we're out to ruin the city, why not chop the Golden Gate Bridge in half, too" demand diehard defenders of the cable car.

The cable car, long a symbol of San Francisco to the nation, was regarded as one of the wonders of the West after its invention here in 1873. Today thousands of motorists regard the antiquated little Toonerville-type trolleys, which are pulled by whirring underground cables, as one of the unfortunate transportation blunders of history.

But the slow-moving little cars ("ladies will remain seated; gentlemen may ride standing outside at their own risk") are beloved by tradition-proud San Franciscans. And millions of tourists wouldn't think their visit to the city complete without one. It gives them the thrilling feeling of a brief journey back into an adventurous past.

But time has passed the cable car by in terms of efficiency. They cost three times as much to operate as a bus, move only about half as fast, and are great middle-of-the-road traffic blockers.

Faced with these stern facts, the Board of Supervisors last January cut the 11-mile cable car trackage in half. It retained the historic lines that would give visitors the most picturesque views of the city.

But an immediate outcry arose, nationally and locally:

"Save the cable cars!"

Letters poured in from all over America urging that the cable car was the vocal soul of old San Francisco, and must not be lost. Indignant citizens last June passed, among other measures, an amendment to the city charter providing that the cable car should be part of San Francisco forever. But, significantly, some 60,000 voters straddled the fence by refusing to vote on the issue.

That should have settled the problem, but it hasn't. Sentimentalists, perhaps including many who haven't stepped on a cable car since the invention of the automobile, have kept the fight raging. They still feel, although bewildered officials protest 'tain't so, the curtailment of the cable car network is only the first step in a dark plot to abandon it altogether.

So sound trucks still roll through Chinatown blaring the embattled wary cry in Chinese: "Save the cable cars!" A campaign is under way by enthusiasts to force the city to restore, or even enlarge, the lost cable car trackage.

If they succeed, this will take a bit of doing—as it would now require the cable cars to run part of their route the wrong way down one-way streets.

Support for this program is less than lukewarm among many city motorists.

"Some of these nuts probably would be in favor of going back to the ox car," snarled one driver. "If they had to try to drive a car two blocks uphill through heavy traffic behind one of those cable monstrosities, that would cure some of their quaint ideas."

The odds seem to be that progress and the past will compromise. In an effort to pour balm on civic wounds, Mayor Elmer E. Robinson has appointed a committee to organize an annual four-day festival to honor the cable car.

"We hope," said a hopeful committee member, "the festival will some day rival the Mardi Gras in New Orleans."

It looks like the cable car, 81 years after its birth, will remain as permanent a part of San Francisco's scenery as its celebrated fogs.

The estimated receipts in tuition from districts and parents for next year has been set at $39,000 by the Sedalia public schools.

Auto Styles To Emphasize Ease, Comfort

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Auttmotive Editor

Detroit, Aug. 28 (AP)—If you go for low-slung autos that look like space ships on wheels, take it from James Zeder — you haven't seen anything yet.

"If people could walk into the styling studios of any auto company," he says, "they'd find drawings of automobiles that look like they're going 100 miles an hour when they're parked at the curb."

As vice president and engineering director of the Chrysler Corp., Zeder helps build dream cars — most of them practical enough to be driven on the open road.

Still looking into the future, he envisions the car of the future riding on tires that will last a normal auto's lifetime—and with brakes that won't wear out. It will be equipped with a smaller, but more rugged and powerful engine, and with a completely automatic transmission "unlike anything in cars of today."

Zeder suggests the car of the future could be built today, if it weren't for some practical roadblocks.

"When it comes to building cars like this some very practical matters crop up — is the buyer willing to sit almost on the floor to have a car less than four feet high? Is he willing to jackknife himself to get in and out? How would such a car work out for his wife when she did the family marketing?

"At Chrysler our rule is to go all out in building experimental cars, just as long as we don't design a car that we couldn't build in volume for the American people. That's a big limitation, but we think it's a sound one."

More often than not the heavily built, 54-year-old Zeder squeezes himself into the seat of a test car to drive it himself He did that a few weeks ago when Chrysler dedicated its new proving grounds. He wasn't seeking the thrill of speed. He wanted to know more about how the engine functioned with all the modifications necessary to adapt it to a racer.

Zeder's first job in the Chrysler organization was on the assembly line of the old Maxwell Motor Co. In 1928 he became chief engineer of the Chrysler, Plymouth and DeSoto divisions.

He played a leading part in the establishment of the Chrysler Institute of Engineering, which draws its students from the nation's universities. After two-year courses at the institute, graduates are taken into the corporation.

Of this program Zeder says:

"This system replaces the old policy of hiring engineers, putting them get into the plant and then and hoping they will absorb some of the practical problems. Most of them gt into the plant and then were forgotten."

Of current cars, he says:

"In the war years everyone, including the auto industry, was amazed at how much punishment and wear a car would take. There was no question about style and design. The important item was whether the car would get you back and forth.

"Now it's a question of looks and convincing the public your car is the kind to have. The public is more discerning than ever. They want everything — good design, good colors and all the work taken out of driving."

Zeder and his staff of some 4,000 engineers had a big part in engineering the 1955-model Chryslers. Chrysler is counting heavily upon the new models to regain sales volume it lost in the 1954-model period Zeder isn't a bit backward about saying the 1955 models will "fill the bill."

For those who believe car prices could be sharply reduced by building a "basic" car Zeder describes Chrysler's experiment along that line.

"A few years ago," he says, "we took a standard sedan and had our engineers reduce it to basic equipment. They removed all the chrome trim, substituted painted truck bumpers, removed all body insulation, reduced rubber insulation, eliminated fancy dash panel, substituted a conventional transmission and took out every item of 'extra' equipment.

"When the engineers got through we had the worst, noisiest, most uncomfortable, ugliest automobile you ever saw. It was basic transportation. How much did we save?

"We would have been able to cut $150 from the selling price."

Puts Forth Wind Theory Of Turbulence

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 28 (AP)—A University of Maryland scientist has a new theory which explains the origin of the tornado and identifies it—surprisingly—as one of the best friends mankind ever had.

The world would not be fit to live in if it weren't for the type of air turbulence that brings about tornadoes, says Dr. Theodore Theodorsen.

Without them, he says, winds would sweep across the face of the earth constantly at the 100-mile-an-hour velocities which prevail in the upper atmosphere; buildings would be blown over, vegetation uprooted and life would scarcely be possible.

The new theory, as propounded by Dr. Theodorsen, is that tornadoes are "merely the largest representatives of the element of turbulence, and turbulence is absolutely necessary to prevent excessive wind velocities along the earth's surface."

Scientists and weather experts are hailing the theory as a significant contribution to man's understanding of the atmosphere. It appears to solve the mystery of nature's creation of turbulence and the origin of tornadoes.

The theory maintains whirling air formations, horseshoe in shape, exist in the normal day-to-day main flow of air over the surface of the earth.

"If we could see air," explains Dr. Theodorsen, "we would note that it is saturated with spinning, continuous columns of air bent into the shape of horseshoes. These vortices are all around us, are of all sizes and they grow, live and die, with others constantly cropping up to take their place."

These formations, Dr. Theodorsen says, sap the strength of the main flow of air, diverting it from its course, causing it to become involved in the turbulence nearly always found on the surface of the earth.

However, from these horseshoes, tornadoes may grow. Normally, the Maryland scientist explains, mountains, buildings, forests and other obstacles on the surface of the earth prevent the columns of air from building up to tornado size.

The tornado, he points out, is actually horseshoe - shaped, although the complete tornado vortex is seldom seen.

Special weather conditions permit the production of big horseshoes of turbulence which easily may become tornadoes. One example of tornado-forming weather is a condition during which a large mass of hot air suddenly rises into a stream of cold air in the higher atmosphere.

The exact technique for applying of Dr. Theodorsen's new theory to predicting where and when tornadoes will occur remains to be worked out. The theory does, however, now form the general basis for all tornado studies and observations.

Green Ridge Sets Election of Marshal

Green Ridge will have a special city election Sept. 2 to fill the office of marshal. A vacancy came when Coy Brown, elected in April, tendered his resignation. It will be in the new city hall building in Green Ridge.

Elbert Ollison, deputy city marshal has been filling that lace.

Fashions Emphasize Corduroy and Leather

For campus wear this year, corduroy teams up with leather, with cotton, with jersey. All three combinations look fresh and attractive. All-purpose corduroy coat (left) has wide piping of beige leather. It's weatherproofed to ward off rain and snow. Ensemble of corduroy and cotton (center) has brown corduroy coat lined in pumpkin-colored cotton and worn over acorn print dress. Mixmates in corduroy and jersey (right) have moss-green skirt teamed with jersey blouse in gold. Huge pockets are piped in red-and-gold to pick up blouse color. Corduroy is used this year for back-to-school clothes in all age groups.

NEA Women's Editor
BY GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK — Fabric and fabric combinations are getting a big fashion play this fall. This applies to back-to-college fashions just as much as it does to high fashion.

This year, corduroy is used in combination with other fabrics (cotton, jersey, leather) for more fashion interest.

Corduroy is, of course, cotton and thus makes the ideal teammate for all types of cotton in suits and separates. It's at its prettiest when it's used in combination with cotton prints: blouses, dresses or coat linings.

Corduroy with wool jersey, one of the newer fashion combinations, is seen in perfectly-cued colors so that blouse and skirt might harmonize absolutely. Fashion interest lies in the combination of the two textures and therefore, they're usually used in plain colors.

Print is handled effectively, however, in circular corduroy skirts that are topped by black jersey blouses.

Bold taffeta plaids look new as a dressy touch for blouses or dresses, for trimmings and accessories.

For outerwear, the winning combination is leather and corduroy. Travel coats in dark pinwale corduroy look smarter when they're lightened by a touch of leather at collar and cuffs.

Orientation Day at SCHS On Sept. 3rd

Orientation Day, for all eighth graders and other new students at Smith-Cotton High School, will be held this year on Friday, Sept. 3, at 2 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Its purpose is to acquaint the new students with the school, its customs and traditions, and to show them through the building so that they will know the location of their classrooms.

All new students will visit the cafeteria after the auditorium program and will then go to each of their classrooms, so that they will not feel lost the first day of school.

Upper class students will act as teachers and direct traffic.

The program itself will begin with a message of welcome to the new students by Richard Bennett, senior student council president.

With Judy Case as accompanist, Virginia Sue Miller, will lead the group in singing several school songs.

Official welcome will be given to the students by Forrest L. Drake, principal, and the response will be given by Leland Payton, junior student council president. Talks on several phases of school life will complete the program. The subjects and the speakers will be: "Care of the Building," Bernice Bacon; "Safety and Traffic," Larry Owen, vice-president of the senior student council; "Absence and Tardies," Bob Morgan; "Adjustment to High School," Charlotte Houston; and "The Cafeteria," Pinkney Miller, assistant principal.

In charge of traffic supervision will be Bobby Case, and of student teachers, Larry Mines.

ERNEST GREEN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Green, 1402 South Kentucky, will begin studies at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, this fall. He was graduated from Smith - Cotton High School this spring.

GARRY ARNETT, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Arnett, Route 5, Sedalia, will enter Park College, Parkville, Sept. 13. He was graduated in May from Smithton High School and will major in science.

MARY JO MORIARTY, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moriarty, 3800 South Ingram, will enter nurses training at the St. Mary's Hospital School of Nursing in Kansas City this fall. (Lehmer photo)

You Can Make Plastic Cushions

Need an extra cushion that is bright, but practical? Perhaps the outdoor swing or chair rates a face-lifting or the top of bench or window seat could be made more comfortable if a pad were used.

In either case you might consider one of the new, bright-colored plastic fabrics for the covering. Cutting and sewing the smooth nonwoven material isn't as battling or as difficult as you might suppose, if you bear in mind a few basic points.

A practical-minded interior decorator, Pat Harvey, often uses plastic fabrics, particularly where ease of maintenance and provision for strenuous use are important. I admired a bright-red topping on a black, wrought-iron bench, and Miss Harvey told me how she did it. Local sewing center experts can give you detailed help if you need it.

First, remember that plastic fabrics are usually firm and heavy, so they lend themselves best to tailored effects. They have no grain and may be cut in any direction. Strips for a corded edge are cut from the straight of the material, since there is no bias.

Second, the smallest hole will encourage a rip. Never pin or paste plastic pieces. Mark seam lines with chalk. Baste with tape. Don't try to press out wrinkles; the iron's heat may melt the fabric. Hang the fabric over a door to remove wrinkles. When cutting the plastic, hold pattern pieces in place with a weight.

Third, when stitching plastic on the machine, use a fine needle, mercerized thread, light tension, light pressure and a long stitch.

Sewing center teachers assure us machine attachments may be used. To use the hemmer, thread a hand needle and draw the point of the plastic into the scroll, pulling with the thread. No need to fold edges under when using the binder, as plastic doesn't fray. Sprinkling fabric surface with talcum powder gives the gatherer or ruffler a better grip.

In the case of the cushion, however, the cording foot is the only attachment needed, and this is used as if you were stitching ordinary fabrics.

Miss Harvey's cushion has a four-inch-thick stuffing of foam rubber, made by gluing two pieces two inches thick together. The cushion is 24 inches square so that two pieces of plastic 25 inches square were cut to allow for seams. The boxing strip is 96 inches long (you may need to piece to get the necessary length), and five inches wide.

Enough cording for top and bottom is assembled from straight strips of the fabric.

Stitch cording to top and boxing strips on all four sides. Attach bottom section to three sides of boxing strip. Trim seam allowance to one-fourth inch and trim corners. Turn right-side-out, gently poking out corners. Sew on a strip of snaps on each side of the opening and insert the foam rubber cushion. Snap together.

DORIS MAE SMITH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Smith, Houstonia, is attending Central Business College in Sedalia, where she is pursuing a secretarial course. Doris Mae was salutatorian of the 1954 class of Houstonia High School. (Lehmer photo)

ANNA JANE BUTTERWICK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Butterwick, Star Route, Sedalia, will attend Missouri Valley College this fall. She was graduated from Houstonia High School this spring. She will major in education. She has a scholarship to Missouri Valley College and had another at the University of Missouri.

SHIRLEY KIRKPATRICK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick, 1800 East 12th, will attend Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg. She will major in music, in which she won a scholarship. She was graduated from Smith-Cotton in the class of 1954.

Civilian SAFB Employees Ask Federation Charter

Civilian Federal Civil Service employees of Sedalia Air Force Base have requested a charter of the National Federation of Federal Employees. Co-chairmen representing the employees are Richard Volz, 2212 W. Third, Sedalia, and Gladys Farrington, 1300 South Ohio, Sedalia.

National representative Arthur C. Crams, from the Washington, D. C., headquarters, arrived in Sedalia to speak to interested employees in the base theatre and to accept the charter application from the co-chairmen. The National Federation of Federal Employees is an independent organization, the largest and oldest group representing federal employees in the world with approximately 1,300 locals located in every federal agency, in every state and 49 foreign countries, islands and possessions.

The national constitution of the NFFE provides that under no circumstances whatsoever may any local or any member of a local strike or participate in strikes against the government of the United States. The Federation represents federal employees on all phases of working conditions and pay in Congress of the United States and in the headquarters of all Washington agencies.

As soon as the charter is received by the local chairman, an election of officers will be held to represent the civilians of the Air Base. In the meantime, Richard Volz is the acting president.

New Coverings Are Easy to Work With And Give You Long Wear

Sturdy, and requiring a minimum of care, plastic fabric covering on a foam rubber cushion makes a comfortable topping for a black metal bench. You'll get added pleasure from its use because you fashioned it yourself.

Use cording foot attachment to bind cording to plastic cushion cover. Use a fine needle, and adjust for light tension.

Measure carefully before cutting fabric for your cushion. Use an accurate tape, and be sure that scissors are SHARP.

Curve of Installment Debt Can Indicate Market Health

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Debt, rather than savings, could call the turn on trade this fall.

The swelling total of personal savings may be left untapped. But watch the curve of installment debt. When it takes a decided turn upward, credit men are saying today, you'll know the consumer is back in the market—even if only with a down payment—after taking it slow and easy earlier this year.

Right now most consumers seem to be maintaining fairly comfortable standards of living, with little splurging. For most of the year they've been paying off old installment debt faster than they've been taking on new.

Credit men figure many consumers have caught up on payments now and are ready to take on some more things they crave.

Buying on time is largely an American institution. Americans have no monopoly on running into debt. But the willingness to pay a little more for the privilege of enjoying the use of something while you pay is typically American.

Why do people borrow to spend? Paul L. Selby, executive vice president of the National Consumer Finance Assn., says: "Most of us spend our money for such desirable things as speed, convenience and 'what we like.' We could do without some of these things and save the money, but we don't like waiting—even if that means getting it cheaper in the long run by paying cash."

Members of the association, mostly engaged in the small personal loan business, lend about three billion dollars a year to some 10 million American families. The common belief is that they must make a great deal of money out of other peoples' needs and desires, since their interest charges—set by law in 37 states—vary from 2 to 3½ percent per month.

Selby will present a report next week at the association's annual convention in San Francisco on a survey of profits of the finance companies. It will hold that last year the median return on assets used in the licensed consumer finance business was around 6 per cent. In 1939 the median return was 8 per cent, dropping below 5 per cent in 1943, combing above 7 per cent in 1947, only to slide again.

John Ryan Wins Trip to Bermuda For Auto Sales

Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan, route 5, are looking forward to a wonderful xacation trip to Bermuda for one week, all expenses paid.

John, who is salesmanager for the O'Connor Chevrolet Motor Co., in Sedalia, competed with 35 other salesmanagers of the Chevrolet motor division of the midwest region, which comprises 13 states, and came out on top. The contest was between sales managers of comparable size dealerships. John won by attaining 200 percent of the quota. The contest was held in May and June.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryan expect to leave about Sept. 18.

It will cost $400,445 to pay Sedalia public school teachers next year.

Dr. John Masterminds Red Plot to Lure Officials to East

BONN, Germany (AP)—Dr. Otto John is masterminding a Communist plot to lure prominent West German officials to the East, Western intelligence officials said today.

The aim of this plot is to discredit Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's pro-Western government and to maintain a barrage of propaganda against German rearmament by defectors from the Bonn regime, the officials said.

Adenauer's scandal-shaken government fears that more Bonn officials will follow John and Karl Schmidt-Wittmack behind the Iron Curtin.

From Cabinet ministers to stenographers, government workers are asking "Who will be next"

Schmidt-Wittmack obtained asylum for himself and his family in East Berlin last Thursday. John, former West German security director, deserted on July 20.

Fred Oelssner, the Communist ideology chief in East Germany, hinted at the new Red strategy today when he predicted at a party rally more West Germans will follow in the footsteps of John and Schmidt-Wittmack.

To kiss or to kill? Karl Malden, suspected of being the "Phantom of the Rue Morgue," holds Patricia Medina tenderly (or lethally?) in a scene from the Warnercolor thriller which opens today and plays through Tuesday at the Uptown Theatre. The film is based on an Edgar Allan Poe short story. Companion feature: The incredible story of a man who held "The World for Ransom." Fantastic! Shocking! But it could happen . . . one man with the power to destroy millions . . . unless the world paid his infamous price! The picture stars Dan Duryea and Gene Lockhart.

Disneyland Opens to Give Godfrey a Run for Audience

By BO THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Look out, Arthur Godfrey! Here comes Disneyland!

The red-haired uke player has dominated the Wednesday night programming since the early days of TV. This season he will meet his strongest challenge when the AC network unleashes its most ambitious program to date. This is the costly and promising Disneyland, a new venture in TV entertainment.

The show makes its debut Oct. 27 and will present a different type of program each week. Each will draw from the wide range of Walt Disney's interests, from space travel to the antics of Mickey Mouse, from American folk heroes to the habits of Alaskan seals.

The shows are budgeted up to a whopping $100,000. I asked Disney how he could hope to turn a profit at that figure.

"We can't," he replied flatly. "Sometimes I wonder why the hell I got into this thing. But we have passed the point of no return, so there's no turning back.

"Actually, we entered the project without the profit motive in mind. We thought it would be useful to let people know what we are doing here at the studio. And the series will be helpful in developing new characters and interests which we wouldn't have developed otherwise."

Disney was one of the first film bosses to see the value of TV in publicizing movies for theaters. He did a few hour-long shows at holiday time to help ballyhoo films like "Peter Pan" and "Alice in Wonderland." Apparently the added push helped, because his profits have never been higher. Now most of the other studios have hopped on the TV bandwagon to help promote movies.

The profit outlook for the Disneyland series is not so bleak as it might first appear. All of the shows will be made in color, and some will be put together as feature films to be shown in foreign countries. There will be additional returns by the reruns of the shows on TV.

"We won't make more than 26 hour shows a year," Disney said. "The network wants to put on 39 shows a season, so some will be repeated."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They're calling Alfred Hitchcock "Skinny" these days.

The noted director alway inserts himself in his suspenseful films, and his portly figure has long been a trade-mark. If he keeps up his dieting, you'll have to look hard to see him in the pictures.

From a high-water mark of almost 300 pounds, Hitchcock is down to 190. He plans to drop down to 185 "and then I'll have five pounds to play with." Because most people are diet-conscious these days, I paid a luncheon call to find out how he has managed the weight shelving.

Lunch consisted of a cup of black coffee for him. So did breakfast. This seemed a trifle extreme, but he explained he had picked up 10 pounds in France while filming locations for "To Catch a Thief."

Being an expert on dieting, his views on the subject are worth recording:

"Exercise is of negligible value. Supposing you eat one large orange That's 100 calories. You would have to walk 35 miles to get rid of them.

"Alcohol is one of the worst fat producers. I haven't touched hard liquor for eight or nine months. It's a pity. If anyone can invent a non-fattening Martini, I predict he will make a fortune.

"It's a fallacy to think you can eat all the meat you want on a diet. After all, meat has a great deal of fat in it. The best beefsteak should be honeycombed with fat.

"You must say goodby to ice cream if you are going to diet. I haven't had any in years. And I love it.

"It helps you to diet if you have an understanding mate. You must get cooperation at home, or you will backslide. I must say that my wife is very helpful.

"A person on a diet must be patient. Usually you lose five pounds right at the start, then you level off and can't seem to lose any more Many people give up then. You've got to stay with it."

First Airport For 'Copters Has Odd Form

FT. EUSTIS, Va., Aug. 28 (AP)—Seeing it for the first time from the air, you'd swear some superhighway designer got drunk while he was drawing the plans and scrambled his cloverleafs.

But you'd be wrong. There is a reason for each twist and turn, every loop and diagonal. It's not a superhighway intersection at all, it's the world's first helicopter airport.

The Army calls it a "heliport" and is sinking $970,000 into the project, proceeding on the belief that the flying windmills eventually will revolutionize the movement of both personnel and cargo in modern warfare.

The fundamental part of the heliport is a giant circular taxiway. Two asphalt runways bisect this circle, splitting it into quarters. These two runways are 90 feet wide but only 600 feet long.

In contrast, runways for jet aircraft at nearby Oceana Naval Air Station extend 8,000 feet.

Spotted along the fringe of the basic taxiway circle are eight "pads," shaped just like the foul circles and lanes at each end of a basketball court. These "pads," plus the two wide runways, are the locations the 'copters will use in taking off and landing.

Largest building at the "heliport" is a 230 by 160 foot hangar, large enough to house 20 Piasecki-type H21 helicopters and five maintenance shops. The hanger, built almost entirely of steel with a concrete base, covers 54,000 square feet.

Other facilities are a warehouse and an administration building. Stretching in front of them is a 750-foot asphalt ramp to be used as a helicopter parking area, connected to the "landing wheel" by two parallel taxiways.

The heliport is expected to be ready for use no later than Oct. 5, and the Army has ambitious plans for its immediate utilization.

It is organizing companies of 100 men who'll be specialists in every. They will be trained at Ft. Sill., Okla.; Ft. Rucker, Ga.; Ft. Bragg, N.C.,; Ft. Benning, Ga., and Ft. Eustis. Each company will be equipped with 20 helicopters. The first of these companies is supposed to arrive here this fall.

When the heliport is complete it will be the base of operations for 20 Piasecki-type 'copters, capable of carrying 16 to 20 passengers apiece, or cargo loads of 8,840 pounds.

Ft. Eustis already has opened what ultimately will be the largest helicopter maintenance training school in the world. Some 1,500 men have been trained in the school this year.

Department Store Sales Equal 1953 Total for Same Week

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Department store sales in the Eighth Federal Reserve District last week equaled those in the corresponding week one year ago.

The Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today the varied reports ranged from a 14 per cent gain in the Memphis area to a 10 per cent decline in the Louisville area.

The bank reported special and seasonal promotions were partly responsible for the Memphis gain and a 2 per cent in sales for the week and the eight smaller district cities were off 7 per cent.

For the four-week period ended Aug. 21, district sales totaled slightly under those of a year ago.

One of the great emotional experiences of a lifetime is currently capturing the hearts of the nation in the magnificent new motion picture by the author of "The Robe," "Magnificent Obsession," currently showing at the Fox Theatre. The screen adaptation of the Lloyd C. Douglas novel stars Jane Wyman, Rock Hudson and Barbara Rush, and features Agnes Moorhead, Otto Kruger and Gregg Palmer.

San Francisco Has Variety Of Charms for the Tourist

By HAL BOYLE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Leaves from a touring notebook:

What is the charm that makes up San Francisco?

Every great world city, like every outstanding human being, has a personality that sets it apart from others. Who could awake in Paris and confuse it with Rome? Who could mistake the fierce power of New York for the grey, durable grandeur of London? Hong Kong has a lure inherent even in its name, which sounds like the bonging of temple gongs.

But what is the magic of San Francisco? One way for an outlander to learn the secret of a city is to ask the people in it why they choose to live there.

I asked that question of a number of residents here. The answers rather surprised me. Not one mentioned specifically the things that San Francisco is most famous for—the unmatched splendor of its setting, its historic past, its variety of food, its cosmopolitan air.

Here are a few replies:

"Everybody is an individual out here. People still respect each other. A pedestrian even has equal rights with a motorist. Folks have more tolerance. They don't quibble over small matters."

"San Francisco has a sense of vitality and the unexpected. You don't have the feeling that everything is over and done with. Anything can happen."

"Most cities have only two climates. And the climate doesn't change by the week or the month. Many days here you can drive a mile and go through at least three different climates. That gives an excitement to living."

A lady who moved here several years ago from New York said positively, "San Francisco is a man's town." Asked if she liked this, she demanded, "what lady would want to live in a woman's town?"

To me the magic of San Francisco lies in the fact that it is able to look backward and forward at the same time.

It enjoys the present heartily. But at the same time it holds one hand fondly back to its fabulous past, it stretches another ahead to welcome the future. It does a wonderful job of balancing history and progress.

Swept by a postwar boom, San Francisco has spread is tentacles of growth outward, but it has changed at its heart more slowly. One returning here after many years will find that the old San Francisco has avoided being swallowed by the new.

While it has retained such moving signboards of yesterday as the cable car, it hasn't lagged behind in the jet age.

This week it dedicated its new $14,000,000 International Airport Terminal, serving more than 3,500,000 people in the Bay region.

The terminal building, one of the most modern in the nation, has eight levels, can accommodate 5 million passengers a year and is designed so that it can be expanded to handle 10,000,000. The airfield itself is as large as the La Guardia and Chicago Airports combined.

Among its features are a $250,000 International Restaurant and vast photo-electric window louvres that close automatically to subdue bright sunshine, open on dull days to admit more light.

But more impressive to me than its multi-million-dollar glamor is the fact that it has two complete nurseries. Mothers with babies have been the forgotten travelers of the air age, but San Francisco has remembered them.

Drought, Increased Exports Trim Surpluses and Prices

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Drought and increased exports of farm products are teaming up to whittle a little away from the piles of surpluses. They are also having their effect on prices.

Bad growing weather is cutting production and raising the prices of some fruits and vegetables at the grocery.

Farm exports have increased 4 per cent in the last 12 months, the Agriculture Department reports. But much of the gain was due to price cutting as the government tried to squirm out from under the big burden of foodstuffs it has acquired in support prices.

Two other government reports illustrate how confusing the food price picture can be.

In July the retail price of food went up—largely because of drought damage. In July, however, the prices that farmers got for their crops averaged 3 per cent below a year ago. In the same month the farmer had to pay about 10 per cent more for the things he bought in town.

The farmer was worse off than last year. And the housewife may have felt that she was the loser too.

All food prices haven't been going up, of course. The rise in fresh vegetable prices hurts the more because per capita consumption of vegetables has been going up steadily in recent years. Fresh vegetable consumption stays fairly level, but both frozen and canned varieties have found larger markets.

Meat eaters are getting a break these days. By shopping around, the housewife can usually beat last year's prices. Poultry and egg prices are so much lower today that some chicken farmers are appealing to Washington for government buying to bolster prices. And the Agriculture Department reports that farmers are raising more turkeys than ever this year, expecting to top the previous record year of 1952.

Coffee and cocoa prices have been coming down a little, due to a price break in the market in Brazil—where the government has been setting the price.

Coffee roasters here aren't sure the price break will last or that retail prices here can be brought down much. They note that there's a wide gap between the price of the green bean in Brazil and the roasted product on the grocery shelf.

Ike Gets Idea For Plastic Auto Roof

WASHINGTON (AP)—The secret's out. President Eisenhower himself thought up the idea for that new "greenhouse" which has recently adorned the presidential official car.

The Ford Motor Co. disclosed today that, at the President's suggestion, it had equipped the White House "parade car" with a transparent plastic roof so he won't be hidden from view at night or in rainy weather.

Newsmen accompanying the President first noticed the device last week when Eisenhower visited the Illinois State Fair at Springfield.

Ford's announcement today said "at the suggestion of Mr. Eisenhower" a removable four-piece Plexiglas roof was constructed to cover the entire rear seat of the open Lincoln touring car built for the White House in 1950.

Ford said the President got the idea during a trip to Richmond.

En route back to Washington, rain made it necessary to put up the car's regular convertible-type roof to protect the President. As a result, he was hidden from the view of those waiting along the route.

Eisenhower was bothered by the disappointment of those who had waited to catch a glimpse of the chief executive, and suggested the car should have a transparent top for just such occasions.

The "all weather" top was designed and built by Ford engineering and styling experts. It can be stored in the car's luggage department, and taken down by one man. Its four pieces are set in aluminum frames which lock together, and have sponge rubber seals to keep out the weather.

Miscellaneous 4-H Exhibits Are Excellent

Housed in the University of Missouri Building centrally located on the State Fair grounds along with the thousands of needlecraft and cookery exhibits are to be found 4-H club miscellaneous activity exhibits from all sections of the State. These include electricity, native craft, handicraft, safety and health displays by individuals and 4-H clubs.

The 4-H club work of Missouri has grown to a point where exhibit space is a problem of Robert S. Clough, Columbia, 4-H Club leader and superintendent of this department at the Missouri State Fair.

Ham, Bacon Shows at Fair Are Top Notch

Ham competition was up to par in the 1954 Missouri State Fair Snow held in the Agriculture Building. All of the $631.00 in premiums offered was taken with premiums and ribbons going to fifteenth place in each class. There were ten monies offered in cured bacon and entries went beyond the ribbons in this class.

Professor James E. Comfort, Columbia and Cordell Tindall, Fayette, again served as judges. They termed the quality of country cured hams as top with aroma and flavor the best.

Grand Championship was handed to light ham exhibited by Mitchell J. Tiesing, High Point, Mo., who was awarded the challenge trophy offered by Senator Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., for the best ham in the show. The presentation was made at the annual "Ham Breakfast" of the 1954 Sedalia fair.

The top hevy ham owned by Earl E. Jaeger, R. 3, Boonville, was made reserve champion and received the $50 top prize for the over seventeen pound class. Both top hams automatically become property of the Missouri State Fair and the Grand Champion will be presented to Governor Phil M. Donnelly during the fair.

Child's Eyes Bring Him 83 Per Cent Of All His Knowledge

No one has to tell you that your child's two eyes are among his most precious possessions.

But there are some things about the importance of a child' eyes and about the care they should have, that you may have never realized.

A child's eyes will bring him 83 per cent of all his knowledge—of all that he learns—throughout his entire life.

His eyesight — throughout life—will control 80 per cent of all his actions.
